

Senate Frowns On Immediate Freedom Vote

Bill to be Passed but Will Delay Indepen- dence, Belief MUST WAIT YEARS

Immediate Liberation Means Economic Ruin, Is Attitude

Washington—(P)—Congressional supporters of freedom for the Philippines forecast today that while majority sentiment appeared to be for passage of an independence bill, the Filipinos could not hope for immediate independence.

Commenting on a cablegram from Manuel Quezon, president of the island senate, to the independence mission—here urging opposition to any bill that did not provide for immediate independence, Senator Cutting (R., N. M.), co-author of the bill now before the senate, said sentiment in congress had progressed too far now for allowing the islands to gain their freedom gradually.

"It will depend a good deal," Cutting said, "on what action is taken by the senate Monday on the Long and similar amendments what legislation is passed."

Personally, Cutting said he would favor immediate independence if such amendments cutting down free-sugar importations from the islands were permitted to stay in the bill.

Cutting referred to the amendment by Senator Long (D., La.), cutting down the free sugar imports from $50,000 tons annually as provided in the bill to 615,000 tons. Senator Pittman (D., Nev.), will move reconsideration Monday of the vote which approved this amendment.

Delay Necessary

The New Mexico senate said the 15-year transition period was placed in his bill to allow the islanders to "set their economic house in order" but if this period is to be shortened immediate independence would be granted by him.

"I should like to believe a bill with the Long amendment in it would be ratified by the Philippine legislature," he said.

Chairman Bingham of the territories committee, said it would be impossible to get through an immediate independence bill.

"I should fight that to the last ditch," he said, "if the interest of the Filipinos themselves would cause any such action for most of the Philippine industries."

"It looks to me as though President Quezon is trying to prevent all action at this time."

"The Filipino leaders made immediate independence their shibboleth for years in their party battle cry and now that they are about to get it they don't want it because they know it means their economic ruin."

Bingham said he would also oppose any bill which did not protect American naval and military stations in the islands.

Former Banker at Green Bay Denies 7 Federal Charges

J. H. Taylor to Go to Trial Next Wednesday in Milwaukee

Green Bay—(P)—Pleading not guilty to seven charges growing out of misappropriation of funds of the McCortney-National Bank of Green Bay, Joseph H. Taylor, former president of the bank, will go on trial in federal court at Milwaukee next Wednesday.

Taylor was arraigned and bound over late yesterday by Judge F. A. Geiger in a federal court session at which Omer M. Kiley, former cashier of the National Bank of DePere and former mayor of DePere, described some of the methods he used to conceal large shortages in funds of the DePere bank.

James H. McGillan, attorney for Taylor, attempted to enter a plea of nolle prosequere to a charge that the former bank president manipulated three worthless checks to conceal the true condition of accounts, contending the transactions were little more than customary banking practice and were carried out without intent to defraud.

The argument was not acceptable to Edward Gehle, federal district attorney, and the plea was entered as not guilty.

In Civil Action

Kiley testified in a civil action to determine ownership of about $40,000 in bonds. He acknowledged that he is under indictment for misappropriating large sums, and told the court he testified knowing that his statements might be used in a criminal action pending against him.

To deceive bank examiners, Kiley said, he took bonds of individuals from safety deposit boxes and from other places of safe keeping and deposited them temporarily with assets of the bank.

L. J. Bosworth, receiver of the DePere bank, found the bonds among the bank's assets. He claimed them for the institution, but later the owners demanded them. The civil action was brought to establish ownership, and Judge Geiger awarded them to the individuals who originally brought them to the bank for safe keeping.

Kiley will be arraigned in Milwaukee Monday on a charge of misappropriating funds of the bank.

Return Open Verdict In Fatal Auto Crash

Waupun—(P)—A coroner's jury investigating the killing of the Rev. J. J. Collins, Catholic priest, in an unusual automobile accident near here the night of Nov. 23 last night returned an open verdict. No effort was made to fix responsibility.

Father Collins, 21 years pastor of St. Joseph church at Fond du Lac, was injured when, while driving alone, he ran into a bridge abutment on Highway 161. Two farmers took him from the wreckage and laid him on the road. Then he was taken to the automobile of Robert S. Doering, Waupun jeweler, himself seriously injured when his machine crashed into the priest's car.

Sentenced to Prison In Attempted Burglary

Green Bay—(P)—George Jacoby, 30, Milwaukee, was sentenced to one to five years in Waupun in municipal court this morning, following his plea of guilty to participating in the attempted burglary of the White store, Pulaski, last Monday morning, which ended fatally for his brother-in-law, Frank Palubecki.

French Groups For Payment To Washington

Committee Wants Agree- ment With U. S. for Full Reconsideration

CONFERENCE IS URGED

Government's Policy Ap- proval With Out- spoken Reservations

Paris—(P)—The foreign affairs committee of the chamber of deputies voted 20 to 6 this evening in favor of a proposal to recommend payment of the $20,000,000 due the United States next week, on condition that America agree to a conference for reconsideration of the debt structure.

The finance committee also supported the proposal by a vote of 25 to 4, and thus the two powerful chamber groups registered their approval of the government's policy.

A resolution emphasizes the French contention that an international conference to settle the entire debt problem is of paramount importance if catastrophic consequences are to be avoided, particularly from the standpoint of money exchange.

The resolution reaffirms the determination of France to respect her obligations and the general adherence of this country to the doctrine of arbitration in all disputes.

The second part of the document, which will be presented this afternoon to a joint session of both chamber committees, indicates that France will be unable to make the December payment of $20,000,000 without a declaration from the American congress for an international conference on the whole debt problem.

Parliamentary circles here were informed that, although England has decided in principle to make the December payment, it has not yet agreed upon the character of the reservations to be appended.

Previous unofficial reports were that both countries were soundly against Washington to learn if Thursday's payments could be used as a credit account in a new debt settlement to be arranged later.

Premier Herriot's Radical Socialist group in the chamber of deputies met today and studied possible debt solutions but decided to refrain from passing upon a definite resolution until a meeting to be held Monday. Officers of the party have voted unanimously for reservation.

A majority of the French cabinet seemed to favor payment with conditions attached.

Grange Is Opposed To Tax Exemption

Organization Also Seeking To Eliminate Middle- man in Marketing

Fond du Lac—(P)—Resolutions proposing that income taxes should be extended to include levies on incomes from securities now exempt, and that not more than half the cost of operation of any governmental unit should be raised by direct property taxation were adopted by the Wisconsin Grange at the final session of the annual convention here yesterday.

The resolution relating to income taxes was amended after introduction to include the phase that the extension of the tax to include income from farm mortgages and other securities based on real estate would be especially desirable.

The state council of agriculture was asked in another resolution to call meetings with cheese and other dairy cooperative organizations to discuss the possibility of making direct sales and eliminating the middleman.

Enactment of a deputation plan or some other method of taking care of farm produce surplus, maintenance of vocational education and free distribution of diphtheria anti-toxin in schools were urged in other resolutions.

Legion Head in Attack Upon Economy League

Chicago—(P)—The National Economy league, of which Admiral Richard E. Byrd is chairman, was the object of an attack by Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the American legion, who said the league had overestimated the cost of government by $5,481,000,000.

Johnson blamed the Economy league also for alleged oversteering of veteran expenses. The burden to taxpayers is not the veterans, but the cost of local and state governments, he declared.

Farm Relief Group to Form Permanent Body

Washington—(P)—Having presented their legislative demands to President Hoover and congress delegates to the Farmers National Relief conference today arranged a permanent organization to push for enactment of the proposal.

This was the final business of the conference which brought 250 farmers to Washington to draw up a program for submission to congress.

Among other things, the delegates demanded a moratorium on farm debts and an end to evictions.

Senate Press Gallery Put Under Police Guard

Washington—(P)—The senate press gallery remained under guard of a policeman today as Charles F. Pace, financial clerk who yesterday furnished a revolver in the gallery in search of a reporter, returned to his office.

The senate rules committee, which has jurisdiction over the capitol, postponed its meeting until Monday. Chairman Moses called the meeting yesterday after verifying reports of the incident.

Admits Three to Bail In U. S. Lottery Case

New York—(P)—An order admitting Conrad H. Mann, Frank E. Hering and Bernard C. McGuire to bail pending appeal of their conviction on lottery charges was signed today by Judge Manton of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The order specified that the appeal must be argued not later than the first week in February.

Wouldbe Burglar Foiled By Barking Shepherd Dog

Woman Ridicules Report Of Attempt to Kidnap Sleeping Child

Philadelphia—(P)—A bungling burglar and not an abductor was blamed today for the kidnapping scare that followed an intruder's attempt last night to force an entrance to the room where the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. C. Master, socially prominent suburbanites, was sleeping.

Police at first suspected a daring abduction, plotted in the manner of the Lindbergh kidnapping, had been attempted.

"It is simply ridiculous to say the affair was an attempted kidnapping," Mrs. Master said. "I have received no threats, or demands for money."

The barking of a German shepherd dog attracted the attention of a maid as the child slept in its nursery crib, and apparently thwarted the intruder. Mrs. Master said the intruder also forced an entrance into the room.

The maid found a metal screen pulled from the nursery window, the window itself jimmied open and a ladder propped against the side of the house.

She heard the footsteps of somebody fleeing across the lawn, summoned the police, and today a hunt is on throughout the fashionable main line suburban section.

Mr. and Mrs. Master were absent from their home in suburban Wayne last night, playing bridge at the home of friends. The boy, John Master, was asleep in his second-floor nursery and the maid, Florence Lanwehr, was reading in a room on the first floor.

Miss Lanwehr was aroused, she told police, by the barking of the big police dog which always sleeps at the nursery door. After she hurried upstairs and burst into the nursery in time to hear the would-be burglar fleeing, she picked up the child and hurried downstairs to give the alarm by telephone.

The police found that the garage near the Master home had been rifled, that valuable china and paintings stored there had been damaged, and that a ladder had been taken from there to the side of the house and placed directly under the nursery window.

Footprints at the base of the ladder indicated the direction of a man's flight, and tire marks, police said, indicated that the would-be abductor fled in an automobile.

Master's Philadelphia broker, the son of Dr. Henry B. Master, secretary of the board of pensions of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., and his wife, the former Mary Clarissa White, is the daughter of John Beaver White of Villanova, Pa. The Masters were married in New York after an elopement in May, 1929.

Cold Wave Wanes In Many Regions Of United States

Zero Weather Routed but Snow Storms and Rain Follow in Wake

(By Associated Press)

The first far-flung cold wave of the season, was due to fade away today.

The routing of zero and below-zero temperatures would be accompanied by snow storms and rain and sleet in many sections, predictions said.

In Chicago Forecaster J. R. Lloyd suggested a profitable week probably could be spent shoveling snow. He said two storms, one from Colorado and the other from traditionally mild Louisiana were headed this way.

California had a snow problem of its own as children in San Mateo and Burlingame frolicked in it. In San Francisco temperatures hit 38. It rained and was generally chilly and disagreeable in the Los Angeles district Friday. The south fared little better with Oklahoma City reporting 16 above zero, Nashville, 24, Little Rock, 26 and Shreveport, 32.

On the other hand Alaska, up on the Arctic circle, was enjoying comparatively mild weather. The same was true in the east and rugged New England.

But in the west it was different. While Chicagoans' teeth chattered at a minimum of 7 above with a threat of zero before the end was broken, the folks at Echo Lake, Mont., said it was 35 below zero there.

Some other cold spots were Havre, Mont., 23; Duluth, 18 and White River, Ont., which claimed the record with a minus 48 reading.

A preview of the general snow storms was enacted in central Illinois last night when a heavy snow began falling, temperatures dropping with it. Kincaid, in the mining area, reported 6 above.

Sees End of Canadian Cooperation With U. S.

Washington—(P)—Recent indications that Canada might withdraw its cooperation with the United States in the suppression of liquor smuggling has had its echo in a report to the treasury department to congress.

The treasury department in the course of making routine requests on the house sub-committee for appropriations, stated it had received "reliable reports" that Canada's 1930 law prohibiting the clearance of ships with liquor cargoes was expected to be repealed.

Commander J. M. Gorman, treasury department intelligence officer, appearing before the appropriation committee, predicted that a "flood of liquor from Canada into United States ports on the Great Lakes" would result from abolition of the Canadian law.

Publish Jap Proposals For Naval Disarmament

Geneva, Switzerland—(P)—Japan's proposals for naval disarmament, made public here tonight, advocate the principle of strengthening defenses and reducing offensive power.

The proposals call for abolition of aircraft carriers and reduction in the unit size of all categories of naval vessels.

Japan asks "a large sacrifice on the part of the larger navies in comparison with that of the smaller navies," thus suggesting revision of the existing five-five-three ratio to Japan's advantage.

The document, as published here, says Japan regards it as practically impossible to conclude to comprehensive agreement with all the powers at a single stroke.

Week's Weather

Chicago—(P)—Weather outlook for the week beginning Monday, Dec. 12: For the region of the Great Lakes—Unsettled with occasional snows first part of week followed by mostly fair latter part; temperatures below normal, except possibly moderating toward close of week.

Milwaukee—(P)—Snow fell over much of Wisconsin today, and was accompanied generally by rising temperatures. Snowfall will continue tonight and tomorrow, according to weather observers here. Temperatures will remain relatively low but for the time being the mercury has ceased its record-breaking dives. It was predicted Snow was general over the Mississippi valley, reaching as far south as southern Missouri.

Einstein Sails for U. S.; Jokes About Inquisition

Bermerhaven, Germany—(P)—Prof. Albert Einstein and Frau Einstein sailed for the United States today on the steamer Oakland, bound for California where he will resume his research work at Mount Wilson observatory.

Berlin—(P)—Prof. Albert Einstein was in high good humor when he started on his long journey to California today.

He recalled the "embarrassing" questions put to him at the American consulate Monday before he was granted permission to enter the United States, puffed away at his favorite pipe, and joked about his unexpected summons to the consulate where he was asked to state his views on Communism, anarchy and pacifism which at the time, made him angry.

"The trouble with hearings of that kind is that you don't realize until some time has passed just where the inquisitor is trying to get under your skin," said the professor. "I suggest in the future consuls put pins in their victims' chairs so they will feel stuck from the beginning."

He said he had been informed by cable, however, that George Messersmith, the American consul general here, was not in town when the now famous hearing occurred. Mr. Messersmith returned yesterday from a week's absence and was surprised to find himself the target of criticism in connection with the incident.

Professor Einstein said, as far as he is concerned, the incident is closed.

Professor Einstein still carry on research work at Mount Wilson observatory in southern California, where he will arrive after voyaging by way of the Panama canal. He will go later to Princeton University.

961 Million Is Requested by 2 Departments

Nearly 33 Million Slashed From Estimate by Budget Bureau

NEEDS ARE LISTED

Would Continue Faircloth Plan but Ignore Fur- ther Cut Proposal

Washington—(P)—Knocking $32,912,304 off the total asked by the budget bureau, the house appropriations committee today reported its first annual supply bill for the session, recommending that $961,416,597 be allowed the treasury and postoffice departments for the next fiscal year.

The committee suggested continuation of the existing 1-3-3 cent federal pay cut put into effect by the economy laws' furlough plan, but made no reference to President Hoover's request in his budget message for a further 11 per cent salary reduction.

Besides being far under budget estimates, the bill, which was to be taken up immediately, proposed allocation to the two big departments of $194,813,236 less than they got for the current, or 1933, fiscal year.

These decreases were from the totals set forth in the body of the budget and not calculated after their further reduction by President Hoover. He shaved those totals approximately $35,000,000.

Estimates Slashed

The appropriations committee recommended $177,033,378 for the postoffice against $905,939,675 last year and $724,128,161 asked by the budget. For the treasury, it approved $244,363,219 against $350,308,158 this year and $270,200,740 estimated by the budget bureau.

The biggest decrease was in the allowance for public buildings. The committee's report showed $231,894,000 was appropriated for that purpose this year and recommended only $81,919,025 for next. The budget estimate was $285,000,000.

This $149,000,000 slash, the committee said, was made possible by non-recurring appropriations, such as the $100,000,000 in the emergency relief and construction act. For the regular construction program, the committee recommended $50,000,000 instead of the $60,000,000 asked by the budget, the money to be used "to meet obligations for sites and construction."

"Expenditures on public buildings," the committee reported, "have lagged behind the estimates of appropriations, and the committee feels that the amount allowed will be sufficient to carry the program alone at full speed."

Chicago Renews War on Rackets

Cook-co Police Chiefs Told To Enforce Law "or Take Consequences"

Chicago—(P)—Chicago awoke today to find a two-way drive underway designed to rid the city of gangsters and racketeers.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, newly installed in office, called police chiefs of Cook-co to his office and warned them they would have to enforce the law or take the consequences. At the same time Police Commissioner James J. Allman began work on a "shakeup" order designed to put Chicago policemen on their mettle in going after law violators.

Messiah's Police Captain Philip Parodi expressed the opinion that the "42 gang" of Chicago's west side, had a membership of 500, although nearly all of the charter members of the organization are dead or in prisons.

"They are the terrors of the west side," he said. "I doubt if any other body of criminals in the country has learned better how to beat the law."

"Recruits come in when they are only 6 to 7 years old. It sounds silly, but it's true. The bigger boys teach the little fellows how to open the doors of automobiles with skeleton keys. A big one stands a little way off and when he sees that the doors have been opened he gets in and drives away."

"Once in a stolen automobile the larger boys are practically safe. The police can't drive their cars as fast as these youngsters. They hold practice sessions on Sunday mornings. One of their tests is to sweep an automobile from the street into a narrow alley at 50 miles an hour."

The officer's comment followed the arrest in raid of nine men described by police as "post graduates" of the gang.

Plans Reorganization Of Utility Concerns

Washington—(P)—Having gathered information from the Federal Power commission preliminary to the reorganization of several operating utility companies in Wisconsin, Kansas, Michigan and Florida, Edward N. Hurley, co-receiver for the Middle West Utilities company, arranged to go to New York today to consult with bankers.

He said his visit had nothing to do with an attempt of Insull group to borrow $21,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

"It's impossible," he said, "for a utility company to borrow from that government organization."

Power Commissioner Dies at Washington

Washington—(P)—Commissioner Ralph B. Williamson, 52, of the Federal Power commission died at his hotel apartment here early today from a heart attack.

Williamson, whose home was in Yakima, Wash., was appointed to the commission Dec. 23, 1930. He was vice chairman at the time of his death.

With Mrs. Williamson and his children, he attended a school entertainment last night. He was stricken with the heart attack about 2 a. m. He had not been in good health for a year. Besides the widow, two children and a sister survive.

Pleas for Legal Wine Voiced at House Hearing

Californian Sees New Upheaval Unless Laws Are Changed

AWAIT DRY STAND

Prohibitionists to Start Testimony Early Next Week

Washington—(P)—Representative Lea, California Democrat contending for wines along with beer in the Collier bill, counseled the house ways and means committee today that unless congress repeals the 18th amendment and modifies the Volstead act, "the storm that swept this country on Nov. 8 will have been a mere zephyr."

He followed Marion De Vries, spokesman for the Grape Growers League of California, in advocating approval for naturally fermented wines.

Diverting from that subject, however, the congressman recalled the elections to his colleagues and asked:

"Are 25 per cent of the people going to defy the will of 75 per cent?"

On Monday and Tuesday representatives of dry organizations are to give testimony in opposition to the bill providing for 2.75 per cent beer and legalization of light wines.

Chairman Collier said "the treasury is investigating the subject and will not be able to complete its investigation until Wednesday," by way of explanation that Secretary Mills would not appear today as had been planned. Once the testimony is all in the committee will go into executive session to decide whether to agree on a bill to recommend for early house action.

The first witness today, Mr. De Vries, said he represented 25,000 producers.

Representative Treadway (R., Mass.) asked: "Are you ready to contend that naturally fermented wine is not intoxicating?"

"I am ready to say that when wine is used with meals that it is not intoxicating," DeVries replied.

"Wine is not a saloon drink. We are going to propose an amendment to the Collier bill to provide that consumption of wine be limited to use at meals."

He said the grape growers were not seeking to legalize all wines, but only those that are fermented naturally.

Excludes Port, Sherry

Port and sherry and other fortified wines would not be included, he said. He estimated consumption of light or dry wine would amount to 125,000,000 gallons annually.

DeVries said the federal government had encouraged grape growers to expand their production, but that since prohibition they had been impoverished.

He contended light wines were "non-intoxicating," but said prohibition California wine averaged about 9 per cent alcohol.

Congress has recognized the difference between distilled spirits and wine and beer, he said, because the Volstead act permits the manufacture and sale of whisky—intoxicating in fact—for other than beverage purposes.

DeVries said a declaration that natural wines "are non-intoxicating" would be far more truthful than the provision in the Volstead act that more than 1 or 1 per cent is intoxicating.

He urged the 20 cents a gallon tax in the Collier bill.

He termed wine a "home beverage," but also said it should be sold in hotels and restaurants.

Representative Dickinson (D., Mo.) asked if he did not think the beer and wine bills should not be acted on separately.

"In the public mind and in political statements," DeVries answered, "they are linked together and should stay in the same bill."

Treadway asked whether natural wines would be intoxicating if taken without meals.

"I must discriminate in favor of these light wines," the witness, "they are not intoxicating in their general use."

Regrouping Plan Expected to Meet Fight in Congress

Speaker Garner Proposals Objectionable to House Will be Removed

Washington—(P)—Speaker Garner told newspapermen today that opponents in congress of some of President Hoover's regrouping of government agencies "probably will get through some action" to stop reorganizations they object to.

Garner said "the sentiment of congress is against" transfer of rivers and harbors work from the war department to the interior department, as proposed yesterday by the president.

For 10 years, he said, congress has refused to let this work be taken away from the army engineers, but, he observed:

"Of course, every time before, the transfer has required congressional action. This time the situation is different—if congress does nothing, the transfer becomes effective. It must act to sign it."

House parliamentarians have held that any phase of the regrouping ordered by President Hoover can be stopped by a simple resolution agreed to by a majority of either house or senate, and that joint action is not needed.

Some house members sought to organize blocs powerful enough to prevent the shifting of 58 federal agencies and the elimination of 15 others, with several others openly critical.

In the senate where Democratic and Republican leaders thought the changes would become effective automatically within 60 days, Chairman Bingham of the special economy committee said today he would summon all heads of departments and bureaus affected to give their views of possible economies and increased efficiency. The president did not estimate possible savings.

The proposed regrouping plan was sent to congress yesterday by Mr. Hoover with a notation that similar proposals soon would follow. Executive orders to effect the changes accompanied the special message.

Considerable support for Mr. Hoover's proposal was manifest in the house, but many members found more that was objectionable than agreeable. Representative Schafer (R., Wis.) was one who said he objected to transfer of the rivers and harbors and flood control work from the war department to the interior department and announced he would offer a resolution to block it "unless somebody beats me to it."

Guy Identified As "Stranger" Aboard Yacht

Woman Positive Prisoner Man Who Boarded Carft Before Slaying

Long Beach, Calif. — Detectives announced today a new link had been forged in the chain of circumstantial evidence by which they hope to connect William James (Curley) Guy, 24-year-old Britisher, with the slaying of Capt. Walter Wanderwell.

In the presence of police, Miss Marion Smith of Rockport, Ga., positively identified Guy as "the mysterious stranger in gray" who had boarded the yacht Carma last Monday night and inquired for Wanderwell a few minutes before the body of Wanderwell was found in one of the darkened cabins of the ship.

"I'm positive—He's the man!" exclaimed Miss Smith as Guy faced her. She then collapsed.

Detectives said Miss Smith's identification led them today to seek a murder complaint from the district attorney's office. Such a complaint was refused yesterday by Deputy Clarence Hunt who said there was insufficient evidence to bring Guy to trial.

In explaining her identification, Miss Smith said she had two chances to observe the man who came aboard the Carma. The first was on his way to the porthole from where he inquired for Wanderwell. I had a good look at him at that time. A moment later I had another look at him when his face appeared at the porthole to the dining room. I am positive the man I saw is the man here."

Identified by Eugene C. Cuthbert, Willie, chief engineer of the 110-foot yacht, said he was certain Guy was the man who had visited the Carma Monday night. Three other members of the crew said they were "almost positive" Guy was the man they saw aboard the ship.

A coroner's jury yesterday decided Wanderwell had been slain by gunshot wounds inflicted by an unknown person on the ship Carma, docked at Long Beach. The verdict added that "from the evidence produced we find the killing to have been with homicidal intent and we recommend further investigation."

Guy related he was at the home of Edward DeLam, an aviator, all of Monday night. DeLam and his wife, however, could not recall having seen Guy after 9 p. m. Police originally had figured the slaying of Wanderwell took place about 9:15 p. m. The DeLam home is more than 30 miles from Long Beach.

While police were seeking further clues in the mysterious slaying of the aviator, Mrs. Aloha Wanderwell, the widow, said plans were being made for burial of the body at sea. She said the services would be kept secret and held far out of sight of land.

Lord Edward Montagu, son of the Duke of Manchester, another of those who had signed on the crew of the Carma to make the adventurous voyage, was released by federal authorities yesterday when investigation disclosed he was legally in the United States.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

The President's Message WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. The President's message may be divided into two parts; one the recommendations on which this Congress must take some action, the other his general observations on the depression. The proposals for action deal with the budget, and will be elaborated in the budget message on Wednesday. The general observations constitute the larger part of this message.

On the economy side of the budget the President is making four principal recommendations. The first is that public works of all kinds be limited to commitments and work in progress except for self-liquidating projects. The second is that Federal salaries in excess of one thousand dollars be reduced by various devices approximately 15 per cent. The third is that "many abuses" in the veterans' legislation be eliminated. The fourth is that there be "grouping and consolidation of executive and administrative agencies" for which a general plan is to be announced in the near future. On the revenue side the President is recommending the substitution of a manufacturer's excise tax, excluding "necessaries food and possibly some grades of clothing," for the nuisance taxes adopted last spring.

It would be unrealistic to attempt to discuss these proposals in detail.

State Street Aid Due in February

Shoulders on Wisconsin-ave Must be Improved, City Informed

The portion of Appleton's street maintenance aid that is being held up by the Wisconsin highway commission because of the condition of the shoulders on Wisconsin-ave will be included in the check to be received in February, according to the division engineer of the commission with whom L. M. Schindler, city engineer, conferred at Green Bay Thursday. Upon the promise that the shoulders east of Lemnaw-st. would be improved, the division engineer approved the requisition for connecting streets in Appleton. A letter from the commission several weeks ago stated that $1,550 would be held back until the shoulders on this street are improved.

Each year Appleton receives $500 per mile from the state for the maintenance of streets connecting state highways, and $200 a mile for all streets in use in the city, with the exception of the connecting streets. This year the aid will be 20 per cent less, as the state has cut all street aid as an emergency relief measure. Thus, instead of receiving $3,199 for connecting streets, Appleton will get $2,559, and instead of $18,000 for city streets, it will receive $14,400.

Offer Dozen Prizes for Holiday Home Lighting

Entries will be received in a few days in the second annual Holiday Lighting contest sponsored by the Appleton Post-Crescent. Every person in the city who plans to decorate for the Christmas season is invited to attend and compete for the dozen prizes, all useful for home decoration.

Entries will close on Wednesday, Dec. 21, and lights are to be turned on that evening. Judges will inspect the decorated homes between Christmas and New Year's, so that announcement of prize winners can be made before New Year's day. In order to make it possible for everyone to win a prize, competition will be in four classes. Class A will be for homes assessed up to $6,000; Class B for homes assessed between $6,000 and $12,000; Class C for homes valued on the city assessment roll at between $12,000 and $20,000, and Class D includes the residence properties assessed at more than $20,000. Properties must be within the limits of Appleton to be eligible for prizes.

Last year's contest, the first sponsored by the Appleton Post-Crescent, demonstrated that very attractive home decorations could be made with the expenditure of very little money. Ingenuity and energy will go a long way toward developing a decoration that will be attractive.

Prices of materials for home decorating, both exterior and interior, are far below last year, so that very little expense need be incurred by contestants. It should be suggested here, however, that in the arrangement of decorations that every precaution be taken to eliminate hazards that lead to fire or accident. The judging for prizes will include a rating from the safety standpoint.

Last year Appleton was one of the most attractive cities in the Fox river valley because of the large number of beautifully decorated homes. This year it is hoped the city will be even more attractive during the holiday season. Everyone should decorate and everyone should enter the contest. The prizes to be announced in a few days, will be definitely worthwhile.

Poultry Expert Tells of Results During Past Year

Points to Low Cost of Feed And High Prices Of Eggs

A copy of compiled results for the past year among poultry raisers of Wisconsin indicates many factors of management in use, according to a report received by Gustav A. Sell, county agent, from John B. Eaves, poultry expert with the state department of agriculture and markets.

Mr. Eaves points particularly to the cost of feed, whereas the price of eggs ranges about the same as last year. Regardless of what happens, Mr. Eaves points out, the poultry flock owner must remember that the flock has been the one bright spot as a source of farm revenue.

Mr. Eaves continues: Too often we are prone to forget about price at this period and remember only the spring price. Returns from good farm flocks again justify the extension program and practice have advocated. "Cost records as an indicator of what a flock is doing and a study of the records as means of making changes that will improve profits is a present day necessity. Keeping records is tedious but can and should become a habit."

Must Hold Weight "Are you holding weight on the pullets to avoid a possible false molt? Are you, if using lights, observing regularity? Are you satisfied with a 50-55 per cent production? Or, are you trying to step on the gas and beat the neighbor's flock at the expense of a good production for the year? Are you resorting to pills, powders and panaceas in an attempt to cover the lack of a sanitation program in chick rearing?"

"Wouldn't it be fine if we could put a governor of some sort on the laying flock so that a 55 per cent production would mean that no individual in the flock was exceeding that rate? The fallacy in present farm practice is that some pullets may be steaming along at 80 per cent to make up for the other that is doing from nothing to 20 per cent. It is this exceedingly big average that is really responsible for molt and slump."

"With prevailing prices we can afford to use considerable corn in a ration. It is the cheapest feed now available. No need to fear pullets getting too fat providing mass consumption is held at a high level."

"Combine milk in the ration, either liquid or dried, if eggs from the flock are to be used for hatching purposes."

"Consider the possibility of mating flocks and having the eggs custom hatched. Chick brooding records from farms this year have been lowest when this practice was followed. Good males are available this year at reasonable costs. This is possibly one way of lowering costs."

"Most of the hatchery operators now do custom hatching at reasonable prices. We have plenty of good females in flocks that should be used as breeders."

"Before definitely deciding one should consider the cost of procuring males as an item in chick cost. Enough of the surplus eggs may be sold to neighbors at a slight premium to offset this extra expenditure."

Commissioners Will Plan for Road School

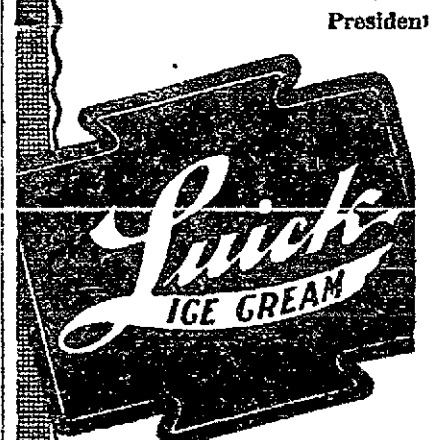

A meeting of highway commissioners will be held at the state capitol at Madison Tuesday afternoon to make plans for the annual road school in January. F. R. Appleton, county highway commissioner, has been invited to attend the meeting which is being arranged by M. W. Torkelson, an engineer with the commission.

Hoover Plan Likely to be Put in Effect

Congress Not Expected to Vote Down President's Program

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — Reorganization of government, bureaus and departments, the dream of a decade, has at last been formally placed before congress by President Hoover.

Although only a preliminary to greater changes in government, which will be prompted by demands for economy, the president's message to congress unfolds a plan, the principles of which are likely to be adopted.

Politics and the powerful influence of bureau chief and government personnel have always been looked upon as sure obstacles to consolidation of bureaus, but under the authority of an act of congress of the last session, a curious twist of lawmaking has put the whip hand in the chief executive. Congress gave the president authority to proclaim changes and they are to take effect 60 days afterwards unless congress disapproves in the meantime. This means that any small group, no matter how powerful, will not be able to delay the consolidations and reorganization. Such a group must be strong enough to muster a majority of both houses.

It may be, of course, that some feature of the plan will command a sufficient strength to bring about the passage of a simple resolution exercising a veto over a particular part of the scheme, but since each group of changes is covered by an executive order, and arranged item by item, the way is left open for congressional approval or disapproval piecemeal without impairing the whole reorganization plan. But the interesting thing is that no affirmative action by congress is necessary. If there should be prolonged debate, and no action has been taken by both houses by Feb. 10, the changes will then be put into effect immediately.

Big Saving Seen
Many of the bureaus, which are grouped in departments other than the ones in which they have hitherto been located, are supervised by individuals of such long experience in government affairs that they are not considered political appointees. Unquestionably, a big saving of money will be made when the mergers are completed. The main principles of the president's plan, as indicated by the executive orders, which will put it into effect, unless congress intervenes, are these:

First, activities cognate to each other are put into a separate division and in the same department. Second many independent commissions, some of which have outlived most of their usefulness but still have some value, are put into executive departments and maintained as advisory committees, with presumably no appropriation for their work unless some administrative activity still remains.

Third, administration duties and powers are taken away from many of the independent commissions and placed in particular departments.

Fourth, the department of interior, which had almost worked itself out of a job, becomes a new department of service and public work. Thus, education, health and recreational pursuits and activities come under a special division in the department, while non-military construction hitherto taken care of by the war department, goes into the interior departments division in public works with the right to have army engineering services made available for government projects as before.

Fifth, a division is made in the work of the office of the comptroller general so that the latter retains his judicial functions in the auditing of government expenses, but

Boy Scout Leaders to Plan Service Programs

New plans for more comprehensive troops service programs to be conducted with the cooperation of field commissioners, will be discussed at a rally of scoutmasters and assistant scoutmasters of various valley council boy scout troops in the scout offices at 7:30 next Wednesday evening, it was announced today by M. G. Clark, valley executive. The leaders also will discuss future activities to be conducted in the council in 1933.

Jaces to Initiate 4 At Christmas Meeting

An initiation ceremony for four new members will take place at a special Christmas meeting of Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce at Conway hotel at 6:30 Monday evening. Speakers will be Coach Percy Clapp of Lawrence college and Mayor John Goodland, Jr. Members to be initiated are Wilmer Krueger, Noel Ansorge, John Stoeftel, Jr., and Alfred Gelbke.

The budget bureau is given administrative responsibility for systems of cost accounting and forms and procedure hitherto taken care of by the general accounting office.

It is estimated that the bureaus affected spend about $700,000,000 a year. How much of this can be saved is not indicated but in order not to jeopardize the future of the plan, insofar as the congressional influence of employees affected is concerned, this curtailment of personnel is left to the discretion of the key executives who will manage the merged bureaus or divisions. The saving may run anywhere from $50,000,000 upwards and is only the beginning of a procedure in reorganization looking to greater efficiency as well as economy.

Many of the Democrats would prefer that the responsibility for cutting down bureaus and personnel be assumed by the present administration and congress, though it would not be surprising if here and there some of the items of the president's plan were held over for the new administration.

Laughton Stars in Mystery Thriller

"Payment Deferred" to be Shown Next Week at Fox Theatre

One of the outstanding mystery thrillers of the stage may now be seen in the film version at the Fox Theatre, Appleton, where "PAYMENT DEFERRED" will be shown Thursday and Friday 1-c. 17th and 18 with Charles Laughton, who scored in the original play both in London and in New York, repeating his extraordinary characterization of a mild bank clerk who, through strange circumstances, becomes a heartless murderer.

Laughton, who was first introduced to American screen audiences in "DEVIL AND THE DEEP", in which he contributed a distinguished portrayal as Tallulah Bankhead's jealous husband, again proves himself to be a character actor of the first order in "PAYMENT DEFERRED". The horror this man experiences after having poisoned his rich nephew in order to save his family from ruin is a stirring and gripping sensation and offers the jaded appetite of the film-goer something new in the way of screen thrills.

Maureen O'Sullivan is the murderer's daughter and Dorothy Peterson gives a compelling performance as the murderer's wife, who shares his guilty secret that finally drives her to suicide. Others who stand out in the cast include Verre Teasdale as a blackmailing French woman, and Ray Millard as the bank clerk's victim.

Constance Bennett In Dramatic Role

Plays Tempestuous and Temperamental Heroine in "Rockabye"

Constance Bennett fulfills one of her greatest ambitions in portraying the fascinating temperamental character of Judy Carroll in "Rockabye". This, coupled with the star's own glamorous personality and histrionic talents, gives promise that the RKO-Pathe picture coming to-night at 11 to the Appleton Theatre, will be her finest achievement.

"Rockabye" tells of a giddy actress' deep love for children and a clean love for a man that tears at her soul. Her difficulties are magnified when, as a witness in the embezzlement trial of Commissioner Howard, she becomes part of the scandal and loses a little girl whom she wished to adopt.

Conquers an Author
After a vacation abroad she returns with renewed enthusiasm. She has found a marvelous play, "Rockabye" but the author does not want her to play in it. At first sight he thinks her too lacking in fire and understanding to play his treasured through love for her baby. He soon changes his mind. Their first meeting is a clash of strong wills that ends in a confession of love after a night life round of pleasure-seeking.

A great, tremendous, clean love has at last come to Judy, but can she accept it at the price attached to it? What is the ruling passion of her tempestuous heart—love for a man, her man, or that megalomaniac something that makes her lullaby sing a glorious love poem?

Rival Leading Men
"Rockabye" provides two leading men for Miss Bennett, Joel McCrea in the role of the playwright and Paul Lukas as her manager, both devoted lovers. The part of "Snooks," the actress' disreputable but likeable mother, is ideally suited to Jobyna Howland's talents. Others in the cast are Clare Blandick, Hazel Jones and J. M. Kerrigan.

The story provides a background of the theatre and is lavishly staged and mounted. Constance Bennett wearing a bewildering array of beautiful costumes. George Cukor directed "Rockabye," an adaptation of Lucia Brandon's play by Jane Muffin and Kubec Glasmon.

Beery, Once Through, Is Real Star Today

Wallace Beery in "Flesh". When the electric sign of the Fox Theatre, Appleton, heralds the showing of this film next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 12-14, there will be offered for attention not one drama, but two.

One drama is to be shown on the screen, the other drama which the lights of the theatre marquee spell out—the story of the man behind the picture. It is the dramatic story

In "Rockabye"

Constance Bennett as she appears in "Rockabye" which opens with to-night's preview at the Appleton Theatre for a 3-day run. Joel McCrea and Paul Lukas play the male leads opposite Miss Bennett.

Bancroft and Gibson In "Lady and Gent"

Two "wise eggs" who were too wise... That in brief, is the story of "Lady and Gent". George Bancroft's latest starring picture, which opens Monday at the Elite Theatre for 3 days.

Petite Wynn Gibson, latest Hollywood "find," who is soaring to stardom in her own right, plays opposite the virile Mr. Bancroft, and Charles Starrett, James Gleason, John Wayne and Joyce Crompton have other leading roles.

Bancroft and Miss Gibson are cast as a couple of self-styled "big timers" who dwell on the shady side of Broadway, battling merrily with each other and with any one else who crosses their path.

The uneven tenor of their lives becomes even more uneven when Bancroft's best friend suddenly dies, leaving a 12-year-old son alone in the world. Just what their responsibilities to the lad are they sit down to consider.

And they reach a conclusion that produces results as whimsical as they are radical. Morgan Wallace, James Crane, William Halligan, Billy Butts, Frank McGlynn, Sr., Charles Grapevin and Frederick Wallace appear in minor roles.

A gala Christmas party will be held for Appleton children at Warner's Appleton Theatre next Saturday afternoon, Dec. 17.

Marx Brothers in "Horse Feathers"

Groucho, Chico, Harpo And Zeppo Cast Together in New Film

"Horse Feathers" latest of the mad, merry comedies of the Four Marx Brothers, is the feature attraction at the Elite Theatre today and Sunday.

Groucho, Chico, Harpo and Zeppo are again cast together in a picture that affords them opportunities for the same type of nonsense they presented in "Animal Crackers," "Monkey Business," and "The Cocoanuts," their three previous movie efforts.

An amusing plot holds the picture together. Groucho is a college president because that's the only way, it seems, he can get his son, Zeppo, out of college. Zeppo has been there twelve years.

With the cooperation of Chico, village bootlegger, and Harpo, village dogcatcher, he ultimately accomplishes his object.

Upon this frame is built many a comedy situation. Groucho talks at his usual rapid-fire rate; Chico puns in dialect; Harpo says nothing and chases every blonde in sight; and Zeppo makes love to the best-looking girls available.

Berg May be Speaker At Annual Scout Meet

Efforts are being made this week to secure Gunner Berg, national director of volunteer training in New York, as the speaker at the annual meeting of valley council of boy scouts, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive. Mr. Clark says he has been advised that it would be impossible to have Mr. Berg speak here in December but that there is a possibility his services will be available in January. The annual meeting has therefore been postponed until next month, he says. It is hoped the complete program for the meeting will be ready to be announced within the next week.

"Three on a Match" Given Rare Treatment

The contrasting stories of the lives of three young girls when their paths converge to create a series of highly dramatic events, is the unique material used by writers Kubec Glasmon, John Bright and Lucien Hubbard for the plot of "Three On A Match," the First National picture which comes next Wed. to the Appleton Theatre.

Due to the importance of these three famine characters in the story First National has placed in these roles their three most important and popular leading ladies, Ann Dvorak, Joan Blondell and Betty Davis. With the addition of Warren William to the leading male part, this four star arrangement makes the picture one of the outstanding events in the cinema year.

The story is one of Fate's queer tricks. Three young girls graduate from public school together, meet after a ten-year lapse, during which one of them has become the wife of a wealthy lawyer, another a hard-working stenographer, and the other, a hordenish blond, is a graduate of a reform school and a wise-cracking show girl. The skein of their lives becomes tangled to produce some startling dramatic situations which are claimed to be innovations in screen story material.

Peggy Shannon Stars In "Painted Woman"

One daring woman, who hated all men, brought face to face with the three men who wanted her, and forced to make a desperate choice. On this powerfully dramatic theme is founded the Fox picture, "The Painted Woman," which opens its local engagement next Thursday and Friday at the Elite Theatre.

In the leading roles are to be seen Spencer Tracy and Peggy Shannon, who recently played together in the Fox picture, "Society Girl," and among the many popular favorites who make up the strong supporting cast are William (Stogie) Boyd, Irving Pichel, Raul Roulien, Laska Winter, Herbert Mundin and Paul Porcasi. John Blystone directed the picture.

Give Hens Warm Air in Winter

Plenty of Sunlight, Balanced Rations Necessary For Egg Production

By W. F. Winsey

Other things being equal, the egg production of hens in winter depends upon supplying the flock with summer conditions, including sunlight, fresh air, warm dry quarters and balanced feed such as the birds pick up in summer about the yards and in the fields. Temperature in a laying house is not as important as good ventilation and the drainage. In other words wet and damp laying houses prevent egg production.

Unless they are kept as canaries and parrots for pets, the best place for roosters and idle hens in winter is in tin cans, and the women of home economics groups of Outagamie county. Canning when the birds are in good shape cuts off the expense of useless winter feeding and care and saves the best of the flock for summer production when eggs are cheap. These women also say that a day out in the open in winter for a flock of layers often cuts off egg production for a month.

If a laying house is well built, lighted and ventilated, there is no need of artificial heating. The warmth from the bodies of 150 hens keeps a laying house 15 by 30 feet warm enough to maintain egg production in winter.

A good laying mash so poultry specialists say consists of 100 pounds ground corn; 100 pounds ground oats; 100 pounds wheat bran; 100 pounds wheat middlings; 100 pounds meat scrap; 5 pounds of common salt and from one pint to one quart of cod liver oil to each 100 pounds of the mash. A good scratch feed consists of a mixture of 200 pounds of yellow corn; 200 pounds wheat; and 100 pounds heavy oats.

Hens also need clover or alfalfa chaff, oyster shell, skim milk, and lots of water.

Milk Pool to Sponsor Meet Monday Night

Expect Big Crowd of City People to Hear Aims, Purposes of Strike

A public mass meeting, sponsored by the Outagamie-co unit of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool, will be held at Wilson Junior high school at 7:30 Monday evening. E. O. Mueller, chairman of the committee on arrangements, said that business men and merchants, labor, milk consumers and producers and farmers were invited to the meeting to hear a discussion of the milk pool's aims and purposes and its proposed strike.

Mr. Mueller said a special effort is being made to have laboring men and business men at the meeting to express their views. He said that farmers were not willing to call a milk strike except as a last resort and that it is possible that some of the city residents might have a solution to this problem. W. M. Singer, state president of the pool, also will speak.

Thank Red Cross Workers in City

Chairman of Membership Drive Pleased With Campaign Results

"An expression of thanks and gratitude to the workers and 1,500 Appleton persons who joined the chapter of the American Red Cross was made today by chapter officers and George E. Johnson, chairman of the membership drive. Pointing out that this year special efforts were made to have a strong chapter and that it necessitated an ambitious campaign by workers and more than ordinary cooperation on the part of persons who became members, Mr. Johnson stated that he was well pleased with the results.

The city of Appleton went over the top in its drive and the rural districts are expected to go over the top within the next few days. Reports on the rural areas are coming in slowly, it is said, but there is every indication they will reach the goal of 700 members.

The city office of the county chapter has been opened in Appleton and will supervise the distribution of cotton cloth and articles.

Conduct of Washington Police Hit by Blaine

Washington.—The conduct of the District of Columbia police in handling the recent demonstrations in Washington was termed "outrageous and disgraceful" by Senator Blaine (R, Wis.) in the senate yesterday.

"I've been informed by responsible members of congress," he said "that language was used by the police that was insulting." Language spoken to women on the public streets was in terms that no honorable gentleman would permit to be said in any other place in his presence to any woman."

Blaine said the police acted with "arrogance, violence and abusive language."

500 People Have Already Bought Christmas Seals

100,000 Stamps Sent Out in Mails by New Health Organization

Already more than 500 Appleton residents have responded in the Christmas seal sale drive being conducted by the newly organized Outagamie Health society, according to Mrs. E. W. Cooney, president. A total of 100,000 seals were mailed out about two weeks ago and returns are being received daily by the Appleton Woman's club, which is handling the sale for the society. Mrs. Cooney said there still were some seals left to be mailed out and these would go out this week.

The seals, designed by an Appleton artist, were printed by an Appleton printer, and the sale is scheduled to close Dec. 31, 1932. At that time, it is hoped, all seals will be new by those receiving them.

The sale conducted by the new health group is independent of the sale conducted by the Wisconsin Anti Tuberculosis association. In the past the Appleton Woman's club conducted the sale and received only half of the proceeds. This year, the new health group decided to conduct its own sale and retain all of the funds for a health program in the city.

Health activities of the Woman's club and the Outagamie County Medical society are combined by the new organization. Funds realized from the seal sale this year will be used in sponsoring clinics and in many other forms of activity.

Merchants Like New Street Lights

Appleton, Superior - sts Both Well Illuminated at Night

Business men on Appleton and Superior-sts are well pleased over the new electric street lights on both of these thoroughfares. Appleton-st now is illuminated from W. Lawrence-st to College-ave, and from Pettibone Peabody Co. and First National bank buildings on College-ave to the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks.

On N. Superior-st, the Wichmann Furniture Co., Hoff Furniture Co., store postoffice, and other buildings stand out beautifully at night under the mellow rays of the lighting system.

Few streets in Appleton have become so popular in a short time as these two thoroughfares. Widening of the pavement and installation of the new lighting system has done much to accentuate the beauty of the new structures erected during the past few years in this part of the city.

These applications will be sent to national headquarters in New York city and will be processed to scout leaders as soon as the new charters arrive.

Scouts Active in Competition for President Award

Achievement Records Must Be Completed by End of Month

Valley council boy scouts are busily engaged this month in various projects and activities which are part of the requirements necessary to compete for the President Hoover award, according to M. G. Clark, scout executive. Approximately 20 days remain before these requirements must be completed to be eligible for the contest.

In order to inaugurate the new 10-year program of Boy Scouts of America, the president of the United States offers an opportunity to every scout troop, sea scout ship and cub pack, and local council throughout the country to qualify for the special award. He is making this award to those who qualify by Dec. 31 in certain specific achievements toward the development of the program.

The award will be made on the basis of troop committee activities, satisfactory progress, and membership. To qualify for committee activities, it is necessary to hold a meeting of at least three or more of the troop committee together with the adult officers to discuss the 10-year program. At least three members of the committee must attend the annual meeting of the council.

Must Attend Sessions To qualify in the progress division, a schedule of regular troop meetings must be maintained of one meeting per week from Oct. 15 to Dec. 31. In addition, the troop must certify that 50 per cent of the registered membership has participated in one or more troop or patrol hikes or outdoor meetings since Oct. 1 and prior to Dec. 31.

In advancement each troop must show that 60 per cent of its membership as of Dec. 31, shall have advanced in rank during the year. The following constitutes advancement: Tenderfoot to second class; second class to first class; advancement to star, life, eagle or eagle palm or four earned merit badges. In civic service the troop must have made satisfactory response to any requests for civic service.

In the membership division, the troop must show a net increase in the number of registered scouts in excess of its registration as of Dec. 31 and prior to July 1, 1932. The following constitutes advancement: Tenderfoot to second class; second class to first class; advancement to star, life, eagle or eagle palm or four earned merit badges. In civic service the troop must have made satisfactory response to any requests for civic service.

In making the announcement of his award President Hoover said: "It is important at this time that the activities of the boy scouts be maintained. It is gratifying to learn that the challenge issued to the boy scouts at the White House conference has resulted in the development of a program of growth for the next 10 years. This will make the character building and citizenship results a vital factor in advancing our democracy."

The chief objective of the program is to make one out of every four new male citizens a four-year, scout trained man, Mr. Clark says.

Jury Awards Damages Of $12 to Plaintiff

A jury in municipal court yesterday afternoon awarded damages of $12 to Harold Klarner, town of Cicero, in his suit for $1,000 against Herman and William Marks, town of Cicero, and Ferdinand H. Kexel, Appleton. The jury found that only William Marks was liable and he will have to pay the damages, plus the costs. The jury retired shortly before noon yesterday and returned with a verdict about 3 o'clock. Klarner charged the three men attacked him at DePaul's hall in the town of Cicero last October. The three men denied the attack and claimed that Klarner engaged in a voluntary fight with William Marks, following an argument.

Roosters Again Steal Honors at Poultry Show

Once more the rafters in Armory G. are ringing with the clatter calls of roosters, cackling of hens, defiant thumping of rabbits, and cooing of doves and pigeons as the Fox River Valley Poultry and Pet Stock association conducts its annual poultry show.

Judges have acclaimed this year's show the best in many years, pointing out that the poultry and stock are exceptionally healthy, clean and of championship material. D. E. Roberts of Fort Atkinson is the judge of poultry, and Fred Witte, Clintonville is judging rabbits and pigeons.

Hundreds of birds and rabbits are on display in their wire coops, arranged in many rows along the large armory floor. In the background is a large individual coop in which L. F. Bushey, 608 E. Pacific-st, is exhibiting a prize assortment of white pigeons. The large coop is beautifully decorated with evergreen branches, which form an attractive background for the snowwhite doves.

Various exhibitors from throughout the valley are displaying cockin bantams, cornish reds, leghorns, white and black wyandottes, Plymouth reds, and other varieties of chickens. In the rabbit exhibit are blue eyed white rex, Havana, rex, white, giants, Flemish, giants, ermine fox and other varieties.

Many Pigeons. The pigeon exhibit is especially large and attractive this year. In this group are Oriental frills, ice pigeons, and various colored doves. Mr. Bushey has the largest display of pigeons on the floor.

Crowing competition between the roosters is exceptionally keen and pronounced this year, according to show officials. Thus far three or four giant white wyandotte cocks have walked off with honors. The smaller roosters, in the white leghorn and cockin groups, stand a small chance of out-crowding their giant fellowmen.

The show, which opened Thursday, will continue until tomorrow evening. Judging took place Thursday and Friday.

Plans have been completed for a Christmas dinner and supper to be served in Salvation Army temple on Monday, Dec. 26. An all-day program will be presented at the Temple that day, with special public services in the morning, afternoon and evening.

The Christmas dinner and supper will consist of chicken, pumpkin pie, and other articles of food customary during the Yuletide season. Approximately 350 persons are expected to take part in the meal.

$5,000 Loss as Fire Destroys Barn, Granary

Blaze Starts as Owner Thaws Out Frozen Pipes With Gasoline Torch

Loss estimated at $5,000 was caused by fire which destroyed a large barn, granary, silo and chicken coop on the farm of James Shilcox, route 1, Kaukauna, late yesterday afternoon. It was reported by the Kaukauna fire department, which was called to the fire, that the blaze started while Mr. Shilcox was attempting to thaw out some frozen water pipes in the barn with a gasoline torch. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

In the barn and granary were 20 tons of hay and 1,500 bushels of oats, barley and corn, and the silo was filled. All of these products were consumed by the flames, which broke out shortly after 3 o'clock. The Kaukauna fire department was unable to do anything to save the barn or other buildings, but they did keep the residence from catching fire. All of the stock, which was in the barn when the fire started, was taken out before the flames reached it.

The fire burned until late in the evening but the fire department returned to Kaukauna shortly after 6 o'clock. Mr. Shilcox plans immediately to rebuild at least the basement portion of the barn to house his stock. The balance of the barn will be completed next spring.

Committee Picks 2 Investigators For Relief Group

Miss Kathleen Cooney, Mrs. Clara Fuminger Given Jobs

Two investigators for the public relief department were appointed by the public relief committee Saturday morning, following interviews with the 14 applicants who received grades above 70 in the examinations held last week. Miss Kathleen Cooney and Mrs. Clara Fuminger were given the positions, and the names of Mrs. Lillian Galpin, Miss Mary Schenck, Mrs. Josephine Burhans and Henry Crowe were certified in case any more investigators are needed.

The committee decided the work in the department at the present time warrants the employment of new workers regardless of whether the city receives federal relief aid. Indications are that Appleton stands a good chance of receiving some help, and yesterday Mayor John Goodland, Jr., wrote the Industrial Commission asking for definite information regarding this city's application. The state has just received a new appropriation of $1,900,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The interviews with applicants this morning were conducted by the relief committee and a representative of the industrial commission. The 14 persons interviewed were selected from the 58 who took the examination.

Little Chute Five Rallies, Beats Menasha

St. John Cagers Come From Behind to Down St. Mary's, 18-16

Menasha—Coming from behind in the closing minutes of play, the St. John cagers of Little Chute nosed out St. Mary's of Menasha, 18 to 16, in a hard fought Catholic high school league game in St. Mary's gymnasium here Friday evening. The St. Mary five led throughout the first three quarters and was ahead 16 to 12 at the beginning of the final period.

The two teams are traditional rivals in both football and basketball and although the clash here Friday was fast and closely contested, referee Williams was forced to call only 11 fouls, six on the Menasha aggregation and five on the visitors.

Rieschl, St. Mary center, and Hammen, St. John guard, were the individual stars, Rieschl leading with five baskets and a free throw and Hammen credited with five field goals.

The St. Mary quint held the visitors scoreless in the first quarter while Rieschl dropped two field goals and a free throw through the netting to pile up a 5 to 0 advantage.

Continues Scoring
Rieschl continued his single handed scoring spree, leading with five baskets and a free throw, while Hammen scored four baskets and a free throw.

Wells Appointment

Considered Legal

Opinion on School Board Matter Submitted by Attorney General

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—Mayor E. W. Wendlandt Friday received from Attorney General John W. Reynolds a legal opinion on the situation existing between the city council and the board of education. The situation grew out of separate appointments of a school commissioner to fill an unexpired term on the board. Miss Alice Mulroy, former teacher of local schools and grade school supervisor was appointed by the board of education, while G. A. Wells, assistant superintendent of the Borden Milk company plant, and a former school teacher, later was appointed by the city council upon the recommendation of the mayor.

The opinion held that the appointment of G. A. Wells as school commissioner by Mayor E. W. Wendlandt was legal, and that the board of education and schools of New London are now operating under the city school plan of government and that in the event of a vacancy on the board due to resignation or death, that the appointive power lies with the mayor, subject to the confirmation of the common council. According to this the appointment of Miss Mulroy becomes null and void and G. A. Wells will act as school commissioner to fill the unexpired term of the late Dr. J. W. Monsted, Mayor Wendlandt said.

THE REIGN OF THE BOOTLEGGER'S LITTLE BOY IS NEARING AN END.

First Electric Lights Erected 30 Years Ago

Special to Post-Crescent

Manawa—Few people probably realized the fact, but it was just 30 years ago last Monday, on December 5, 1902, that Manawa business places made use of their first electric lights. Just twelve firms utilized this new and modern luxury and they were envied by all the countryside.

This group collectively contracted to install sixty-four 16-candle power lights, and it was with this huge contract that the Little Wolf Lumber company agreed to furnish the power. The dozen originals included G. W. Brown, David &

Kinsman, H. E. Shipman, R. M. Roberts, C. J. VanOrnum, Avery & VanOrnum, Luecke Bros. & Co., Taylor Bros., Wm. Garry, H. J. Hageman, Schuelke Bros., and C. J. Risenberg.

Generators were made at the rate of 50 cents each month for each light, no matter how much current was used. Energy was furnished by a direct current, 75 kilowatt, 220 volt generator, the power being derived from an old water turbine in the basement of the saw mill owned by the company here.

Construction work on the street was done by workmen from New London, who were more or less familiar with that line of construction. The switch board and generator was installed by Walter Giese.

Ole Peterson was the first trouble shooter, operator, meter reader, line man and wire man, and he had charge of the entire plant. From the time it started in 1902 until the holdings were sold to the Wisconsin Power & Light company in 1927, Mr. Peterson was the direct overseer.

Change Closing Hour
At first the generator was started at dusk, and was operated until 11 o'clock. It was closed down then until 5 o'clock in the morning, and ran until daylight. When the night life of the village became such that 11 o'clock was too early an hour, the closing hour, by general demand, was set at midnight.

Unless special arrangements were made, all social activities in Manawa for years were necessarily terminated at twelve o'clock. There was a warning five minutes before the plant shut down, and a general scramble for coats and hats ensued, followed by a race for home in an effort to retire before the lights went out.

Occasionally, by much coaxing, the operator was prevailed upon to keep the lights in operation for a longer period. Sometimes he was told to keep them on until notified, and often he would sit up until four or five o'clock in the morning waiting for word to shut down, while the host at the party responsible for all this extra privilege, would go to bed and forget to notify Mr. Peterson.

Manawa had no street lights until 1906, when a contract was drawn up between the village and the company on October 8. Arrangements were made for thirty 16-candle power lights at a rate of 60 cents per month per light, or a total of $9.60 per month. If 32-candle power lamps were used, the rate was $1.10 per light per month, or a sum of $35.20 twelve times a year.

Sell Plant
Twenty-four hour service did not arrive in Manawa until October, 1922, when the company began operating its new 2,200 volt, 60 cycle, 270 KVA turbo generator. In 1927, the local concern sold its electric plant to the Wisconsin Power and Light company.

As one agency for relief, the village of Manawa recently purchased a wood lot from Draheim Bros. north of town for $45. This lot, about an acre in extent, is expected to supply over 100 cords of wood, to be used by those getting relief from the village.

Eight men were at work cutting the trees this week. After the wood is sawed, half of it will become the property of those who did the work, and the remainder will be used by the village to supply others in need of fuel.

The story of the play centers around three college graduates, who inspired with a determination to aid their college endowment fund, decide to open a tea room for the winter. They secure a charming old home belonging to Dallas Thorne, wealthy young man who has been jilted by Gloria Sherwood, and is now teaching in Europe. He returns suddenly regretting his ascent to renting his home, and appears on the scene. He is mistaken for a hired man and accepts the position in a spirit of adventure. A maid is suddenly taken ill with small pox and the house is quarantined. At the time of the ban, an old friend of Miss Day, Rosemond's aunt, who is chaperon, is calling, and Gloria herself, now a widow, is resting at the home while an automobile tire puncture is being repaired. They are not allowed to leave, and complications follow.

Gloria tried to ensnare Dallas again, who is interested in Dixie. A fire and a thrilling rescue bring about the reconciliation of Dixie and Dallas.

Music between acts will be provided by Orpheus mandolin quartet. Home made candy will be sold after the play.

Shut-Out Raise Often Effective, But Dangerous

BY ELY CULBERTSON

A Raise in partner's suit as a form of shut-out is not unheard of, but when it is made direct, by over partner's Overall it is extremely dangerous, as it may be read as a strong bid. The strategy is liable to prove successful, however, when partner has no possible Rebid.

In the following hand Mr. Samuel Fry, Jr., sat East and managed to prevent an opposing game by the use of these tactics.

South-Dealer.

North-South vulnerable.

The Bidding:
(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South West North East
1♠ 2♦ (1) Pass 2♠ (3)
Pass (4) Pass (5) Pass (6)

1—A sound Overall.
2—The hand is not strong enough for a free bid of three clubs or for a free Raise of two spades; a pass is the only possible procedure.
3—A very fine bid, although a dangerous one. Mr. Fry decided that if his partner lacked the strength to double, the chances were that the North-South hands contained a game. They could not be prevented from finding this game if South were allowed to rebid unmolested. The three diamond bid, therefore, could only do harm if his partner held enough strength to warrant another bid.
4—Being vulnerable, South cannot risk a bid of three hearts, and a Double in this position would very likely be left in by partner.
5—Fortunately West holds no other bid in his hand.
6—Obviously if North could not bid two spades, he certainly cannot now bid three spades.

GOOD TASTE TODAY
By Emily Post

CERTAIN PROPERTIES

Dear Mrs. Post: When I entertain one or two or three tables of contract bridge, is it my place, to say what stakes we are playing for, or do I ask my guests what they want to play for?

Answer: You ask them and seat them accordingly. And put your self at whichever table there is a vacancy. If all play for the same stakes, seat them according to your knowledge of their ability and temperaments—both. Seating people you know well is easy. Otherwise you have to seat them according to what they like to play for.

My dear Mrs. Post: My daughter died some time ago and now my son-in-law is marrying again. Do I still consider him my son-in-law?

Answer: There cannot be any rule as to this, but if possible, yes. This depends entirely upon your feelings for him. If you love him and he you, there is no reason why affection should turn to bitterness. If your character is strong enough and sweet enough to overcome the pain—which is inevitable—of seeing a stranger in your daughter's place.

My dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper for a wife to speak to an acquaintance or friend of her husband's, whom she has never met, when her husband speaks to them in passing on the street?

Answer: It seems to me that you would either stop and exchange a few words, or else not speak. But there is no rule about this except to follow your own spontaneous inclination—as is the case in more situations than not.

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently I attended the funeral of my brother-in-law, on my husband's side of the house. My sister-in-law is quite well off and lives in a distant city. We have never been intimate friends, although friendly. I stayed in her house while on this sad mission. What should I do now that I am home?

Answer: Write her a short note and say whatever is true, that your husband was comforted by being with her and that you appreciate her kindness during a time that was so difficult for her—write about your husband rather than about yourself.

Armored Suits Inspire Modern Frocks

Paris—A metal mode which draws its inspiration all the way from the mint to the armored suits of "knights of old" distinguishes the latest collection launched by Lyolene.

A frock which borrows its lines from a fifteenth century suit of armor, silver bracelets recalling armored cuffs, dollar-sized silver buckles and little dime buttons which spread out like a three leaf clover are all found in the midseason togs designed in this house.

The background for these metal trinkets are woolen frocks made of fabrics as unusual as their trims. A fabric which borrows the inspiration for its weave from the potato sack and another which is wool on one side and linen on the other are outstanding in a material mode replete with soft plain wools.

The frocks themselves are simple in design. Black, dark blue and gray fabrics are designed with a broad-shoulder line, often formed from a yoke, plain sleeves and slender silhouettes. Occasionally the bodices are tucked blouses of multi-colored striped jersey; again the only note of color contrast is in the belt.

One dark blue wool frock is accented by a woven belt of red, blue and white string, while another has a crushed girde of blue oilcloth studded with dollar-sized silver circles.

Dinner and evening frocks also display colorful trims. A simple dinner gown of gold and green lame is worn with a short puffed sleeved jacket trimmed with sparkling rhinestone buttons, while a simple white evening gown is worn with a ruby red velvet girde having long trailing ends and cuff bracelets of white crystal studded with red dots.

From a fifteenth century knight to a twentieth century lady! Lyolene borrows inspiration for this frock of blue wool from a suit of armor in the Invalides Museum. Note the shoulder line, belt and silver cuffs which are outstanding features in its design.

JOE RAYNOR smiled quietly at Joan.

"People change their minds about various things, Joan. Because I once loved Sally's sister doesn't mean I still do. As I recall, you had a romantic hangover for David Harter."

"Of course," She paused. "Joe, how does anyone know that? What is it? I can't expect anyone else not to change? It frightens me. I'm almost afraid to marry for fear I'll be hurt. And yet—Oh, Phil's different!"

"Of course. There are two sets of people in the world. Those who stay put—the rock of Gibraltar kind—and those who go wandering on like butterflies. Phil's the real kind. He's a good egg." Dr. Raynor said, motioning to the waiter to bring more coffee.

"Joe, you shouldn't," Joan interferred. "That's your fourth cup."

"Is it? I hadn't counted," He smiled amusedly. "Just one more, Joan, and we'll go."

He didn't go to the hospital with Joan. He had just come from there, and he had other patients to see, he explained. Joan was shown into Sally's room.

She caught her breath at the shining light in the invalid's eyes. They were like stars.

"Sally, I'm so glad you came. And I have some news. I'm going to marry Joe. Everything's come right at last. Isn't there a verse in the Bible that says the crooked shall be made straight? It's true, Joan. You know it, too."

"Very true," Joan answered, pulling off her gloves.

Sally's hand reached under the pillow. She produced a small silver locket.

"Years ago I gave this to Joe in a youthful mad moment. It had my picture in it. I had almost forgotten. I knew I had given it to someone but I didn't remember to whom! That was before I was in love with him—when I was in school. But he saved it. Last night he told me about it."

Joan murmured the usual remarks. But she was seeing again the troubled look in Joe Raynor's eyes, hearing his voice as he had talked. He had tried to hard to convince her that he really wanted to marry Sally. But he had been so unconvincing. Sally, never guessing, talked on until the nurse came in.

"I must go," Joan said. "You are coming to stay with me when you are well enough. The trial will be just so much apple sauce, I've heard. Get well fast, won't you? Good-bye, Sally."

Outside, Joan walked slowly. She didn't know Ruth Bradley. Ruth had married Dale Courtney and gone away on her honeymoon because her own husband had wanted to grow together. However, she knew at a glance that the slim girl, with the great dark eyes, whom she met in the hospital corridor, must be Sally's sister. Impulsively she spoke to her.

"Pardon me, but aren't you Ruth Courtney?"

The girl smiled. "Yes, I'm Sally's sister."

"Oh, I'm so glad. You've been so grand. Sally wanted to see you. I just met Dr. Raynor on a haute ago, down the street, and he has had a sudden brilliant suggestion. We'll need your help."

NEXT: The suggestion.

Don't Drown Idealism In Youth, Patri Urges

BY ANGELO PATRI

Once in a lifetime each one of us is an idealist. Few come through with the ideal complete, or even still in the vision. Yet that period of idealism is precious and the adolescents who express it must be encouraged to hold on and fight and win. Adult disillusionment ought not to extend to blighting youthful idealism and enthusiasms.

It is always stimulating to an adult to hear a youthful crusader talking. He sits back, a smile in his eyes, nods his head and says, "Yes, yes. Once I felt like that." The crusading Youth turns to him and asks in surprise, "Aren't you that way now?" So simple, so clear, does the vision strike upon the mind of Youth.

What will the old man, the master, say? Is he that way now? The old fire stirs. Maybe he is. At least he hopes so, and certainly he hopes that this fiery one, this strong spirit untouched by the drabness, the cordiness of life, unwearied by any struggle, touched by a vision of hope and beauty may succeed where he failed. If he is really an old master he says so. Only the shoddy failures try to drown the fires of Youth.

It seems to me from where I sit in this office to which so many children and old masters come, that we Youth rather than fanning it into flame. In the first place we hide facts from them. We protect them from what we know to be the truth in politics, in government, in the market places. "They are too young to know. They would misunderstand." What is it they would misunderstand? Our failing? Our feebleness? Our compromises with the Vision? It seems that way to me.

And when Youth breaks into flame and threatens the security and peace of our snuggeries, how fast we are to squelch him. "When you are old enough to understand what you are talking about you can speak out and lead a cause. Until then you keep still and study your lessons and follow me." Small blame to Youth if, in the vein of the inscription on the tombstone in the Richmond churchyard, he says, "To follow you I'm not content because I know which way you went."

We will have to be more careful of our Youth. We need its idealism and its crusading spirit. We need to set the standards higher and train our Youth to regard them with respect and admiring eyes. We will have to shape our course a bit more according to the vision that once animated our souls so that when Youth asks, "Are you not that way now?" we can say with some vestige of truth and courage, "Yes. Still that way and ready to lend you a hand toward keeping you that way."

Youth loves truth. Youth loves candor, fair play, good sportsmanship. Youth regards honor and knows loyalty. Youth has a vision, an ideal and rushes gallantly to its salvation. Are we that way? Teacher, preacher, father, mother, old master, are you that way? Youth calls to you for the good word. Are you ready?

Influences operative on this December 11th will be productive of a series of minor and often petty disturbances. It will be difficult to concentrate. Little will be accomplished of a creative sort. Those who find it necessary to draw upon their powers of imagination will be at a standstill.

Children born on this December 11th will have gay personalities. An inclination to be cruel to animals gives the best and finest that is in him.

Large Pores Result of Inactivity

BY ELSIE PIERCE

Bees: Enlarged pores often indicate extreme sluggishness. Night and morning exercise followed by a cool or cold shower and brisk turkish towel rubdown are helpful in stimulating the circulation. Locally, the skin should be cleansed very thoroughly with a bland soap and warm water, rinsed several times with warm, then very cold water. Then pat the skin very briskly with a large fluff of cotton dipped in skin tonic. Ice, wrapped in gauze or soft linen may also be used daily with benefit. Sorry, I cannot mention the names of proprietary articles.

Richmond: The frequent use of peroxide on the hair, might indeed cause it to become dry and brittle in time. Instead of peroxide I would suggest that you try one of the simple vegetable rinses on the market. They last only from shampoo to shampoo, but are not drying or harmful to the hair in any way. Night and morning brushing, daily scalp massage and hot oil treatments before shampooing will all help to bring your hair back to its former lustre and sheen. If you would like my hair bulletins and also a bulletin telling how to make simple rinses at home, send a self-addressed envelope for them.

A. V.: For your coloring of dark brown hair, blue eyes and olive complexion, soft, rich shades of blue, blue-violet, gray, soft shades of green, blue-green, dark shades of orchid, purple, silver, white, and black with color accents should be particularly becoming. Reds are usually too vivid for your type except in a certain red-violet shade. Very soft shades of orange and burnt-orange may be worn but avoid browns beiges yellow and gold.

L. S.: Heavy, thick hair should be thinned out by an expert who makes a specialty of this work. Some of the ends will of course be shorter than others, but as the tapering is done so gradually and carefully, no stubby ends are noticeable. With the true-to-the-contour-of-the-head coiffures so fashionable, the thinned-out head has the advantage over the head carrying a heavy mass.

Court Clerk Chants Oath As Wife Hears 'Burglar'

Durham, N. C.—One thing is certain—S. O. Riley, clerk of recorder's court is always ready to chant his accustomed oath.

It was early morning Mrs. Riley awoke and shook her husband.

"Wake up," she said in a hushed voice. "There's a burglar in the room."

Riley sat up sleepily and began: "You solemnly swear the evidence you shall give the court in this action now on trial."

He received more vigorous shaking finally got up and found no burglar. A perfectly good oath wasted, thought Mrs. Riley.

Don't Bank Too Hard on Changing Man's Habits

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—Can you judge a man's habits by the way he acts in his own home and his attitude to his mother and immediate family? I am in love with a man 32 years old. He is quite stubborn and given to outbursts of temper at home but he tries to please me.

Can a wife's influence change her husband to any degree?

TROUBLED.

Answer:
You are wise to consider carefully the temperament of a man before you marry him, because the one most important factor in a wife's happiness or misery is her husband's disposition. It is that which settles whether her marriage is a success or a failure.

A man may have every virtue under the sun. He may be honest and faithful and give his wife places to live in and limousines to ride in and Paris finery to dress in, but she will be utterly wretched if he is surly and grouchy and fault-finding and hateful to live with. And, on the other hand, a man may have a thousand faults, but if he is sweet-tempered and considerate and tender, and if when he comes in a house it is as if all the electric lights had been turned on, his wife will bless her wedding day.

So you are right in thinking that the most important thing that any girl can find out about the man she is contemplating marrying is what sort of disposition he has and how he reacts to domesticity, and there is no better laboratory in which to study him than in his own home.

As a general thing, it is a pretty safe bet for a girl to gamble on that a man will treat his wife as he does his mother. There will be some exceptions, but the result of his father's attitude toward his mother and the way his mother has taught him to regard her. If he is accustomed to treating his mother as a servant whose business is to wait upon him, he will expect his wife to go on slaving for him without thanks or appreciation. If he has always seen his father treat his mother with contempt and lack of consideration, he will pooh-pooh his wife's opinion and think she should be satisfied to stay at home and take care of the children while he steps out of an evening. If his mother has made herself a doormat for him to walk on, he will wipe his feet on his wife.

But there are exceptions to this rule. Sometimes the mere fact that a woman is a man's wife, that she is his possession, gives her a value in his eyes that makes him cherish her. Sometimes a man never really has an unselfish affection for any human being until he falls in love with some woman.

Sometimes a man who has been callous to his mother's sufferings and warring for her to sacrifice to him cannot endure for his wife to have even a pin prick, and works himself to death to save his wife from having to lift her hand.

So you can't always tell how a man will treat his wife from the way he treats his mother and sisters, but the odds are that the man who is shrewd and tender and kind to his mother and sisters will be that way to his wife.

As for stubbornness, that is a vice or a virtue, according to circumstances. It takes a lot of stubbornness to get along in this world. It is the people who dig in and stick to a thing in the face of discouragements who succeed at last. It is the men with determination of character who make faithful husbands and, anyway, stubbornness is a much easier fault for a wife to deal with than weakness. Moreover, while you may not be able to drive a stubborn man, you can generally cajole him into going along the path you wish him to tread.

An uncontrolled temper is about the worst fault that a husband can have, and if you marry a man who is given to indulging himself in rages you will have your head broken many a time and have to endure many an insult. The wife has a hard lot in life who lives in terror of doing something that riles her lord and master and sends him into a blind fury that makes her quake in her shoes and leaves her battered and bruised in spirit, if not in body.

Of course, every wife does modify her husband's disposition to a certain degree, but nothing is so overrated as woman's influence on man. All that she can do is just to push him along a little in the way he is already going. She cannot change his direction.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—How can a man tell when he loves a woman enough to want to marry her? I am now 26 and have kept company with a number of young ladies always with the viewpoint of some day finding one that I will want to make my wife. These girls have been everything that a man should want in a wife, yet I have never felt that there was one of them that I would care to marry. What is the test of the love that a man should feel for a girl before he marries her?

C. C. C.

Answer:
You'll know, C. C. C., when you meet Miss Right. She may be no bathing beauty. She may be no college graduate. She may be no Patient Griselda. She may not even be able to boil water without scorching it.

You may have known a hundred prettier, cleverer, more amiable, more domestic girls, girls better fitted to make a man a good wife, but when you meet this particular maiden you will feel that life will be cinders, ashes and dust without her.

That is the infallible test of love with a man. Just feeling that some one particular woman is absolutely necessary to his happiness and that he can't exist without her, and unless he does feel that way about her he doesn't love her, and that's all these is to it. It isn't a matter of logic or reason or suitability or any question of the woman's charms and virtues. It is just that some girl makes his pulses leap and another one leaves him cold.

Still another test of love is whether you are willing to give up your bachelor freedom for a woman or not. Does the idea of having to punch the home time clock allure you? Are you fascinated with the thought of being put through a questionnaire on your outgoings and incomings? Do you think quiet evening at home would be more exciting than stepping out to a night club? Do you look forward to spending your holidays doing chores around the house instead of playing golf? If you can answer "yes" to all of these questions, you are in love.

And another proof of love is whether you are willing to work for a woman. If the thought of her makes you want to roll up your sleeves and tackle your job with fresh vim, and if you would rather spend your money on her than on your own pleasures, then you are in love for keeps and it is safe to pop the question.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a widower, in my 50s, children all grown and married. I am living alone and am very tired of it. Would you advise me to marry, and, if so, should I look for a widow or an old maid? Which will make me the better wife.

J. P. D.

Answer:
I think you would be very wise to marry, provided you pick out a woman in your own age class and one who has similar tastes and habits to your own and is accustomed to the same environment.

The best bet would be some middle-aged neighbor woman whom you have known for years and who would have the same background and interests that you have. The previous status of the woman makes little difference, though I should incline to the widow as the better bet on the ground that, having had experience in getting along with a husband, she would know better how to make allowances for masculine peculiarities and not expect too much of a mere man.

On the other hand some of the greatest husband-spoilers I have ever known were old maids. They expended upon the men they married all the pent-up affection and romance and desire for something to mother and pet and find over that they had been accumulating all their lives, and they treated their husbands as if they were grand sheiks as if it was a pleasure and an honor for his handmaidens to minister before.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CALTON

Napoleon

Most historians look on Napoleon as a wholly selfish menace from which Europe saved itself by the narrowest of margins, to its lasting benefit.

Hilaire Belloc feels that the direct opposite is true.

In his new biography, "Napoleon," Mr. Belloc says that Napoleon fought for a united Europe, which, says Mr. Belloc, would have been the greatest boon European civilization could have had. He almost reached his goal; that he failed, Mr. Belloc says, must be counted one of the world's great tragedies.

This failure, Mr. Belloc continues, was due chiefly to two errors Napoleon made. He involved himself in the Spanish adventure, which split the Grand Army in half, and he made the mistake of invading Russia. But he also failed to appreciate the unifying force of Catholicism and to fail therefore to align himself with a power that might have brought him to success.

Mr. Belloc has not followed the ordinary biographical formula. He begins his book with a rather condensed sketch of Napoleon's career, and devotes the remaining chapters to describing certain of its outstanding incidents—such battles as Marengo and Austerlitz, the Italian and Russian campaigns, the return from Elba, and so on; and his book thereby gains a good deal of dramatic force.

As a new appraisal of one of the world's most interesting men, "Napoleon" is a powerful and deeply absorbing bit of work. Published by Lippincott.

Offer Comedy For Benefit Of Yearbook

Three-Act Play Presented By Students at Auditorium

Kaukauna—Students of the high school presented "Dulcy," a three-act comedy, in the school auditorium Friday evening for the benefit of the high school yearbook. The farce was directed by Miss Cecelia Calvy, dramatics instructor, and included a cast of 11 characters.

All of the embryo actors and actresses portrayed their parts well, but Peter Metz, Jr., stole the show with his characterization of G. Rogers Forbes, a high-strung business executive. Metz, playing opposite Mabel Hilgenberg, depicting "Mrs. Forbes," was the center of most of the action. His attempts to merge his company at a low figure with the firm of Gordon Smith, played by Robert Goetzman, resulted in overlooking the elopement of his daughter, Angelina, Margaret Fargo as Dulcy, or Mrs. Smith, kept her husband in trouble with her unsuccessful attempts to be of assistance.

Eloping with Vincent Leach, a lecherous movie script writer, Leach, as Angelina, surprised the audience by returning married to Lorenz Mayer as William Parker, a guest at the Smith home. This unexpected turn of events placed Mr. Forbes in good humor at the

Continue to Flood Field for Ice Rink

Kaukauna — Workmen of the north road district continued to flood Park school field for an ice rink Friday evening. The work was to be completed today, Thomas Reardon, road commissioner, is directing the work.

The climax of the play, Jack Licht presented the part of Schuyler Van Dyck, an airy-minded cousin of Lyck, an airy-minded cousin of Patterson, manager of the Van Dyck company. Tom Driessen portrayed the part of Patterson.

Tom Steretto, a suitor of Angelina, was played by Clarence Koch, and Henrietta the maid was presented by Wilma Jirikowicz. Steretto and Van Dyck brought about completion of the merger of the Smith-Forbes companies with their transactions of business in presence of Forbes and Patterson. Forbes believed the transactions of the airy-minded Van Dyck to be authentic because of Patterson's presence and paved the way to the merger with a favorable offer.

Olin G. Dryer handled the business arrangements and Misses Frances Corry and Ethelyn Handran were in charge of the makeup.

Kaukauna—Using pointers gained from his team's showing against Brillion high last Tuesday, Coach Paul E. Little is directing the Kaukauna high school cagers for a clash with the school alumni next Thursday. The Kaw squad showed lack of experience in its game at Brillion, but staged a great comeback in the second half after trailing 10 to 2. The final count was 18 to 11. THE NEBBS

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES

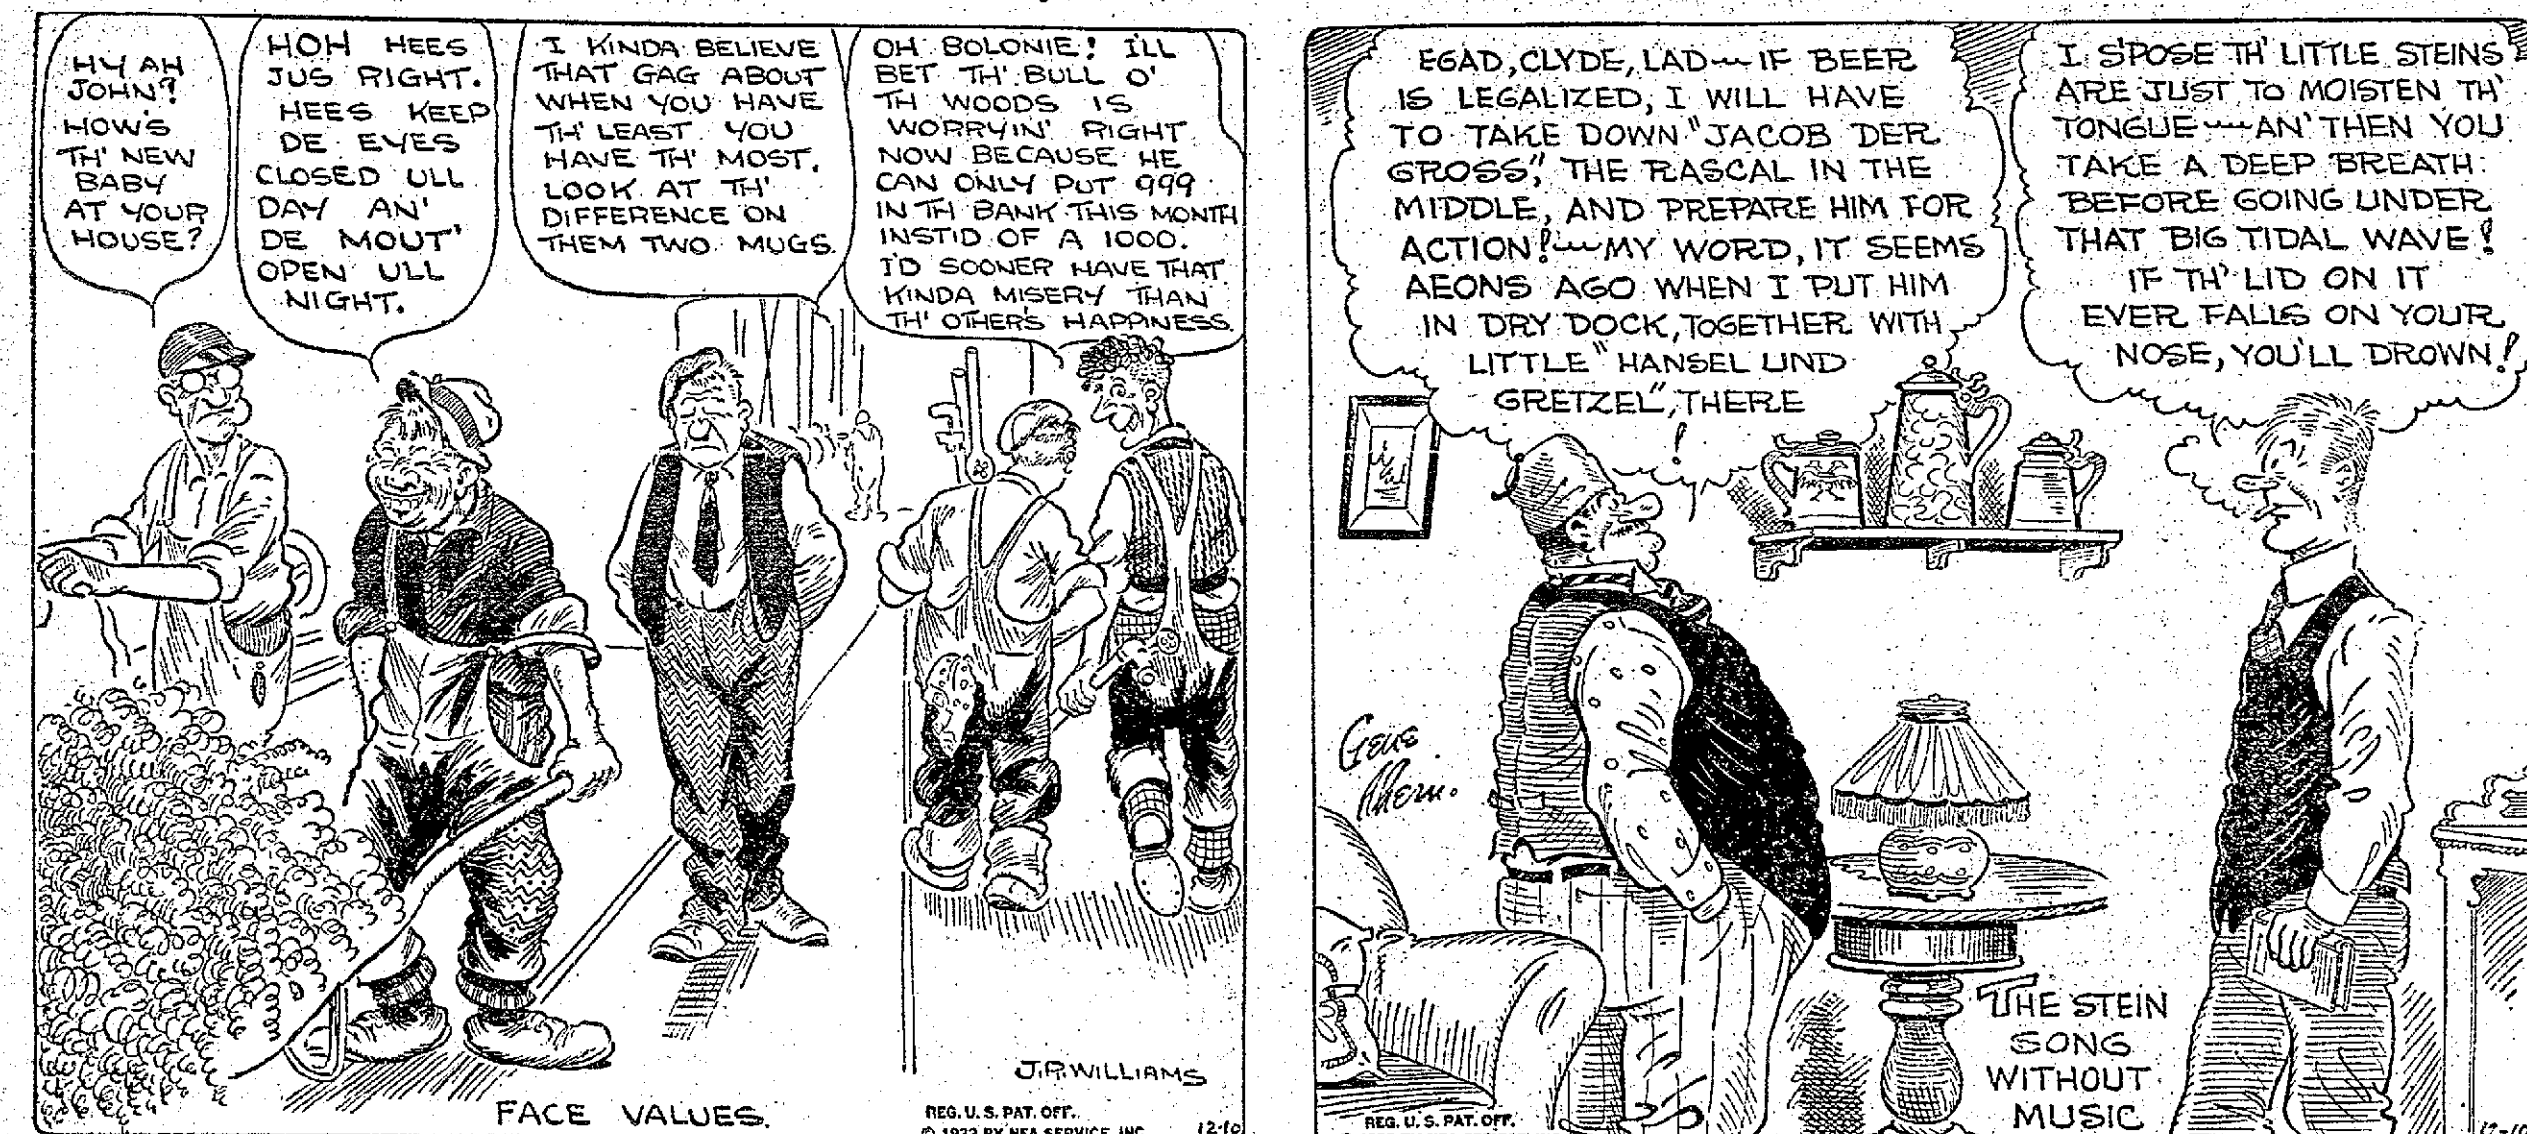

WASH TUBBS

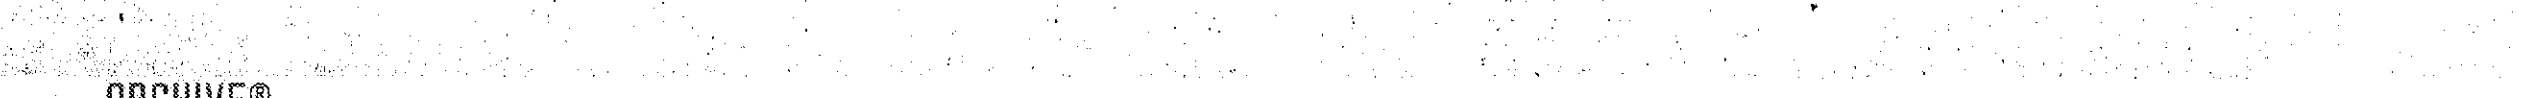

THE NEWFANGLES (Mom'n Pop)

OUT OUR WAY

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

for LOVE or MONEY by H.W. MORAN

MONA MORAN, born on New York's East Side, marries JOHN BARNETT TOWNSEND, millionaire. The strange marriage is arranged by Mona's employer, also Townsend's lawyer, who tells her a wealthy client wishes to marry her with the understanding that she will occupy her own apartment and have unlimited charge accounts for one year. At the end of that time she must decide whether to become Townsend's wife in actuality or secure a divorce.

Mona tells her bridegroom to be, young BARRY TOWNSEND whom she loves. Not until just before the ceremony does she learn the man is Barry's uncle. Young Barry, who is not friendly with his uncle, has returned to South America where he and STEVE SAC-CARELLI are partners in a diamond mine. Believing young Barry lost to her, Mona goes through with the marriage, LOTTIE CARR, fashion model, is Mona's closest friend.

Six months pass. Only occasionally does Mona see her husband. He buys a huge diamond, called "The Empress of Peru" for her. Mona tries to soften her husband's bitterness toward his nephew. He tells her that if she will agree that their marriage shall be meretricious, he will "do the right thing by Barry."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXX

MONA stared at her husband. What could she tell him? Should she say that she had thought him cruel, scheming and revengeful toward his nephew? That she had believed he had married her only to torture both Barry and herself?

She reminded herself that, save for hearsay, she was not even certain that young Barry had ever loved her. The admiring glances, the suave flattery might all have been part of a game, the merest flirtation. By accepting that flirtation for more than it was worth she had lost Steve's love (if she had ever had that) as well as young Barry Townsend's.

All this did not alter the fact that she loved Barry. Now, should she decide against ending this marriage, she could bring Barry into his rightful inheritance.

"Suppose," she said quietly, "that I think that over until after the holidays. Then we can make plans—either to remain here as we have been or to start on our honeymoon."

"A Mediterranean cruise?" Townsend suggested eagerly.

"Would you like that?"

"I?" he paused. "Oh, I've been everywhere. Suit yourself, my dear." He added tenderly, "I hope you'll see things my way. I'm a bad fellow at heart, really. He was silent again. "The bad blood between my brother and I began in the cradle. Then when he stole the woman I was to marry."

"She must have been willing," Mona pointed out, "or she wouldn't have gone. After all, that wasn't Barry's fault!"

"No, Barry can hardly be blamed for that."

There was no more said on the subject nor was it raised again during the days of preparation for the holiday festivities.

Christmas came and went merrily. Mr. Townsend had planned a dinner at Twilands with Mona presiding at the table. Flushed and lovely, in gleaming white satin and emeralds.

Christmas morning lay gleaming white about them. Snow had fallen and the day was a veritable "Christmas card holiday," as Mrs. Faxon exclaimed. At three o'clock the car arrived for Mona who was to spend the afternoon with her family. The towns had decided an invitation to Twilands. Ma's new fortunes had taken material form and the neighbors were dropping in for a bit of celebration. Ma was a flutter with mince pies in the oven, tissue paper and holly everywhere.

Dad, comfortable and smiling, wearing a new silk robe, was seated in his armchair smoking and chatting with one of the boys who had dropped in for "a bit of a laugh and a joke."

The Donahue twins, fresh in starched rompers, were dragging new fire engines up and down the hall amid shouts of glee.

Kitty, it seemed, was entertaining Mr. Townsend had sent theater tickets and she had departed with a crowd of friends. The telephone rang and Ma answered it. Alice's voice came over the wire.

"Tell her I'll send Jackson to bring her down," Mona ordered, tossing aside her sweet smelling furs.

At that instant the ringing was cut short. "Hello," said a strange voice.

"Is this Twilands?" An ominous fear overwhelmed the girl. She scarcely knew why. The voice was not familiar.

"Yes, Madame."

"Madame! A strange voice would have to be in all likelihood, have said "Miss." Someone was speaking who had recognized her.

"I wish to speak with Mr. Townsend. Has he retired?"

There was a silence. Mona could sense rather than hear a slight rustle, as though the telephone had changed hands. She could hear quick breathing against the transmitter. Then another voice smote her ear.

"Is that you John?" she asked quickly.

"Mrs. Townsend? This is Dr. Dunn speaking. Your husband—Mr. Garrison is on his way now to tell you."

"But my husband!" Mona gasped. "Is he ill? Wait—central, you've cut me off. Is he ill? Answer me!"

"I received the signal to disconnect," the operator's voice came in a monotone. "Shall I try them again?"

Never mind," Mona said. She replaced the receiver. Dressing slowly, she awaited the coming of her husband's lawyer. Already she knew what he was coming to tell her.

Appleton High Basketeers Defeat Wisconsin Rapids Five

Step Out in Second Half To Win 27-12

Bobbie Rule, Murphy Star; Play Wausau Quintet Tonight

APPLETON high school opened the first night's show of a two day jaunt through the Wisconsin river valley at Wisconsin Rapids last night and hung up a 27 to 12 victory. Tonight the Orange will stage its second exhibition with Wausau at Wausau.

Although the final score indicated Appleton had things all its own way that situation did not exist until the second half. Play during the opening two quarters was ragged and the Orange failed to get started. Wisconsin Rapids managed to lead by a score of 3 and 1 at the end of the opening period and only some hard work by Bobbie Rule which brought a basket and free throw enabled Appleton to break an 8 and 8 tie in the last minute and a half of the second quarter and lead 11 and 8 when the long rest was called.

The Orange did an about face in the second half. It moved its defense out further and caused the Rapids no end of trouble. On offense it drove in harder and made use of its height to take a 21 and 10 count at the end of the third quarter and shove that to 27 and 12 during the fourth. The Rapids counted but four points in the last half to 16 for Appleton.

Bobbie Rule and Jim Murphy the two Orange veterans, both guards and Bobbie the Orange captain, were the outstanding performers according to reports. Van Ryzin came in for some credit and Chuck Arnold distinguished himself with three buckets and two free tosses. All members of the Orange squad on the trip saw action.

The Rapids showed it had not progressed far with training this season. Coach Carl Klandrud having taken over the squad but 10 days to two weeks ago. David, guard and center, was the only letter man on the team, another veteran being on the sidelines because of a leg injury.

Player Trades Are Hanging Fire

But Teams Say Little About Them; Minors Set Salaries

Columbus, Ohio — (AP) — Numerous player trades involving major and minor league teams were hanging fire today as managers of both groups turned toward New York for the winter meeting of the big-time circuits which opens next week.

Though admitting deals are in the making, few of the owners were willing to discuss them publicly. It was known, however, that the Cleveland Indians were bidding high for Harley Boss, star first baseman who played last season with Chattanooga but who is owned by the Washington Senators, with the names of three Cleveland players and cash entering the talk.

Clipping the last session of the thirty-first annual convention of the National Association of Professional Leagues yesterday was an agreement to permit class AA leagues to fix their own salary limits. Around this question had centered the biggest battle of the convention.

The American association and the International league, both double A circuits, set $39,000 a year as the maximum salary expenditures for their teams. No limits were placed on club salary expenditures in the Pacific coast league, however.

Limits on other classifications were fixed by unanimous vote of the magnates. Maximum monthly payrolls, including manager's salary, will be $4,250 in class A groups, $2,000 in class B, $1,800 in class C and $1,000 in class D. Player limits fixed were: class AA 18 men; class A 16, B and C, 15, and class D, 14.

Judge William C. Brannham of Durham, N. C., was elected president, and J. H. Farrell of Auburn, N. Y., treasurer, with the executive committee to consist of Warren Giles of Rochester, N. Y., Alvin Gardner of Dallas, Texas, and Dale Gear of Topeka, Kas. Mike Sexton of Rock Island, Ill., former head of the national association, was made an honorary president.

Pittsburgh — Jimmy Thomas, Pittsburgh, outpointed Bobby Leith, Canada, (10); General Burd, Alliquippa, Pa., stopped Frank Swinsky, Salsville, 9, 9.

A New Conference?
S UPPPOSEDLY from Eddie Kotal, now athletic director at Stevens Point, comes the suggestion that the Teachers' colleges be divided into two conferences and that Beloit, Carroll, Ripon and Lawrence join the conference in the eastern and southern sections of the state.

The suggestion is that Stevens Point, Oshkosh, Milwaukee, White-water and Platteville Teachers colleges join with Ripon, Lawrence, Carroll and Beloit in a league. The other loop would be LaCrosse, River Falls, Stout, Eau Claire and Superior. The big argument is that the arrangement would result in comparatively compact leagues and would save traveling expenses.

Not a bad suggestion from one standpoint but we can hear Denney of Lawrence, DeChing of Ripon and some of the other boys asking "where the dickens can anyone gain prestige playing teachers' colleges — and if we get beat by them we'd lose our reputations sure."

Incidentally Kotal's basketball team is rated mighty highly in various circles this season. Kotal stole some of Denney's stuff recently and invaded the northern peninsula. He beat Ironwood Junior college 64 and 30, Michigan Tech 26 and 23 and Northern State Teachers 48 and 29. The score almost sounds like those Denney turned in against the northerners a couple years ago on a two or three game jaunt.

Last night the Pointers played St. Norbert at De Pere and won 38 and 28.

No Sentiment in Football?

This afternoon out there on the west coast at the Notre Dame-Southern California game one of those things occurred which makes football and collegiate sports the great institution they are.

Early this season Orv Mohler, perhaps one of Southern California's

Illinois Cagers Make Start Against Bradley

Chicago — (AP) — Illinois will make its initial start of the 1932-33 basketball season against Bradley Tech tonight, and Chicago, Michigan, Northwestern, Ohio State and Minnesota, will meet their second tests.

The Illinois figure to have little trouble with Bradley, which has lost to Iowa and Northwestern, but the latter and Michigan, face hard battles. Northwestern tackles Marquette, and Michigan will meet Michigan State.

Chicago meets Lake Forest, Ohio State has Ohio Wesleyan, and Minnesota plays Grinnell. Iowa won its second game last night, but encountered unexpected resistance from Monmouth and only managed to win by 23 to 22. Indiana also chalked up its second triumph, smothering the University of Cincinnati, 41 to 21, and Notre Dame got started by drubbing Albion, 41 to 20.

Southern Conference Becomes Two Leagues

Knoxville, Tenn. — (AP) — The unwieldy Southern conference has split along geographical lines and out of the break emerged today a new group of 13 schools, mostly of the deeper south, to be known as the Southeastern conference.

greatest backs suffered recurrence of an old injury to his spine and neck. He was told his football days were over — he'd never play again — one hard bump would result in permanent injury or death.

So Mohler, a certain all-American, in his last year of college football was forced to quit the game. But the young man harbored certain fond hopes — that he might once more face Notre Dame.

And so this afternoon, through the courtesy of "Hunk" Anderson of Notre Dame, Orv Mohler again faced the Ramblers — he was given permission to be a twelfth man and hold the ball for one of the kick-offs and then retire to the side lines for the last time.

When something like that happens all the arguments against football, all its bad features are knocked for the well known goal.

Swede Shows Well

A newspaper clipping from a St. Louis paper was handed to us yesterday in which Chester "Swede" Johnston, Appleton youth with the Battery A. Gunners of St. Louis, a pro grid team, is given much credit for his showing against the Chicago Cards last Sunday. The Cards won 20 and 7.

Speaking of "Swede" the story says "Swede" Johnston's great playing not only paved the way to the Gunner's touchdown but endangered the Cardinal advantage from the time he went into the game in the second period until the final gun barked. He was a constant threat and opened up the Gunners' assault late in the second quarter that crashed the ball down on the Card 10 yard line with a touchdown imminent as the half ended.

Then in the last period it was Johnston who plunged, passed and hurdled his way to the lone St. Louis touchdown and one of the opponents was none other than Chevigny, the team's coach and one of the best backfield men ever turned out at Notre Dame.

In another place it is said ".... completed the fourth of five straight passes tossed by Johnston."

Speed Boat Body Changes Its Rules

Regulation Relating to Premature Starts Is Rescinded

New York — (AP) — The rule disqualifying contestants for premature starts in Harmsworth trophy races and which resulted in the 1931 speedboat classic being called "no contest" has been rescinded by the International Motor Yachting Union, international governing body.

Word of this action was brought to the United States by George Townsend, president of the American Powerboat Association, who attended the union's convention at Brussels last month.

Rescinding of this rule is not effective until 1934 but there is little prospect of a race in 1933, with Lord Wakefield, backer of Kaye Don's two unsuccessful challenges, withdrawing from speedboat racing.

Under the old rule a contestant may beat the starting gun by no more than five seconds. In the 1931 race Gar Wood, defending the trophy for the United States, admittedly led Don across the starting line ahead of the deadline, causing the disqualification of both. Wood had hoped to have his second boat, driven by his brother, declared the winner, but the race instead was declared "no contest." The effect was the same, however, as Wood retained possession of the trophy. He had won the first heat of the race.

St. John Trips St. Mary Quint

Little Chuters Count Winning Margin in Last Ten Seconds

Little Chute — With only ten seconds to play the St. John high quintet broke a tie which gave them a decision over the fast St. Mary five of Menasha. The game was typical of previous meetings of these two schools and waxed fast and furious from the opening whistle to the end. The final score was 18 to 16.

The honors for the first quarter must be given to the Menasha players. The score at the end of that time being 5-0. During the second period the locals managed to sink three baskets but the St. Mary five added four points to its score making it 9-6. The third quarter saw some brilliant playing on both sides but the blast of the whistle which closed the period found Menasha leading 14-12.

The closing quarter was hotly contested. With the score 16 and 16 and ten seconds to go Hammen dribbled down the floor and put the ball through the hoop for the winning points.

Consider Plans For Organizing Boys' Puck Loop

Appleton boys including those of high school age who might be interested in a hockey league with one team from each ward, are being sought by Charles Fond of the Pond Sport Shop.

The boys have been asked to stop at the shop any time soon and express themselves on the question so that plans can be made.

If enough interest is shown the boys will play on the Jones park rink or efforts will be made to have one or two other rinks erected in other parts of the city.

Kimberly Highs Lose to Seymour

Villagers Over-Confident; Invaders Take Lead In Last Period

Kimberly-Seymour high school basketball team had more fight than the over-confident Kimberly high team last night and won a 22 and 20 verdict.

The Kimberly team was no match for the fighting visitors, although neither team had much advantage during the game. Kimberly lacked its usual organized offensive play and was guilty of shooting plenty of long shots from impossible angles of the floor.

The first period ended with the score tied 4 to 4 and at the close of the half the two teams still were deadlocked at 12 all. The third quarter continued neck and neck and the score was 16 to 16. In the last two minutes of play Seymour took the lead and Kimberly could not overtake the invaders.

Primo Wins but King Gets Cheers

Levisky Hurts Giant in First Round but Fails To Follow Up

Chicago — (AP) — Primo Carnera, Italy's huge contestant to the boxing trade, today had his second victory over King Levisky, but the cheers were still ringing for the Kingfish.

The Italian giant, noticeably improved as a boxer, poked and clubbed out a ten round decision over the pride of Chicago's Ghetto last night in the Chicago Stadium, his second in a little more than a year, but as on the former occasion, Levisky won the hearts of the customers.

One of the judges voted for Levisky, and the 14,333 patrons howled at their unofficial approval. Levisky made a desperate effort to accomplish a knockout, and in the middle of the first round, had the crowd in an uproar as he suddenly lashed out with his roundhouse right swing, and planted it on Carnera's chin. Primo did a half-squat, but the King failed to follow up and his chance faded.

Carnera weighed 261 pounds, to a mere 197 for the King, who tired badly at the finish.

The receipts were $22,834.90, of which Carnera received 30 per cent.

Expect 100,000 At Trojan Game

Notre Dame Still Rules 10 To 7 Favorite to Cop Decision

Los Angeles — (AP) — Coach Heartley (Hunk) Anderson led his influenza ridden Notre Dame football team within the ramparts of Troy to do battle today with the University of Southern California.

More than 100,000 were expected to sit in on the struggle which may have important bearing on the mythical national championship. The game starts at 4 o'clock Appleton time.

Weather permitting — and forecasts made no mention of rain — this record crowd hoped to see two stalwart elevens tussle to a draw on running plays and settle their differences through the air, with the invading Ramblers 10 to 7 favorites.

Barring further and uninvited precipitation, the field will be fast and the weather crisp for the torrid struggle, which will see Notre Dame endeavor to terminate the Trojans' string of 18 consecutive triumphs.

Just as these same Southern California footballers abruptly ended the Rambler reign after going through 26 games unbeaten.

A special touch of sentiment has been attached to the game. By permission of Coach Anderson, Orville Mohler, whose brilliant career as a Trojan quarterback was halted by a back injury, will participate in one play.

If Southern California wins the toss, Mohler will hold the ball for his teammate, Ernie Smith, all-American tackle, to execute the opening kickoff. Otherwise he will appear at the start of the second half, and then will be substituted.

WOULDN'T THIS JAR YUH?

Ohio bowlers were ousted from among the leaders in the Big Ten league at the Elk alleys last night. They dropped two to Minnesota. The Gophers won the first game with MacFarlane's 170 but Ohio won the second with 208 by Stark. '09 by Heinritz. Minnesota took the third game with F. Heinritz' 195.

Wisconsin copped two from Indiana, the first and third games. L. Powers' 227 won the first tilt for the Badgers, his 199 the third. Indiana's win was the result of 214's by Feavel and Beelen.

Illinois took two from the Purdue Bulldogs in a weird session. R. Hoffman's 169 was high for the Cardinals in their first win. In the second L. Graef got a 183 which with several other high counts offset a 200 by E. Wilson on the Dogs. The Cards won the third game with a 1056 score that saw S. Balliet get a 242, J. Plank 213 and L. Graef 191.

Meiklejohn hit a 234 for the losers. Yellow Jackets won two games from the Panthers. In the first the Jackets copped with 201 by G. Ward, 204 by E. Koerner. Panthers took the second with 225 by H. Brinkman and C. Greim's 200. The third game went to the Jackets despite a 221 by Bass of the Panthers.

Bears won two from the Dodgers the latter copping only the first game by 13 pins.

In the other game Steam Rollers staged a big uprising in the opening battle and beat the Spartans. Then the Spartans won the last two games. E. Schabo had a 258 in the Roller win. Spartans won the second game with E. Manser's 206 and J. Hamm's 210 and despite a 220 by Hitchler of the Rollers. Manser's 212 gave the Spartans a win in the third contest.

Schabo's 258 was high individual count, and his 609 was high series. Cardinals had 1056 for high game and with 829 and 894, had a 2879 total score.

Kid Chocolate Wins Verdict From LaBarba

Cuban Negro in Bad Way In the 12th but Stages A Comeback

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (AP) — There appeared no doubt today after one of the toughest 15 rounds of his career, that the ebony-hued kid from Cuba can take it.

In the twelfth round of a feather-weight championship scrap with Fidel LaBarba, little California bulldog, Kid Chocolate looked to be on the way down or out under a terrific body battering. For a solid minute he took everything LaBarba shot at his mid-section, then to the astonishment of a crowd of 15,000 yelling fans, put on a flashing comeback.

LaBarba Groggy, Weary Before this twelfth round, the most exciting and dramatic of the entire fight, was concluded. Chocolate had completely turned the tables. He had LaBarba groggy and weary under a two fisted barrage to the head. He had weathered the stiffest blast of the fight with enough stamina to come back and keep the slight margin on points that appeared definitely his at the end of the match.

This rally and a closing flurry in the final round saved for Chocolate the recognition as champion that he holds in New York State but which is otherwise subject to dispute. It was so close, however, that it took the votes of the two judges, Sam Austin and Eddie Farrell, in Chocolate's favor, to decide the outcome. The referee, Willie Lewis, voted the contest a draw.

Lubrication Is Appreciated Now

It's Saver of Repair Bills
When It Is Done
Correctly

Lubrication of the chassis of a car is far more appreciated by motorists than it used to be. It is declared that 85 per cent of automobile repairs are the direct result of faulty lubrication, and that these repairs could be avoided if the cars were periodically and properly oiled and greased.

Three essentials appear in the proper greasing of cars. One is the use of the right grease for each point. Modern cars require various lubricants, the average car using from five to seven. The second is some mechanical means to get at the parts of the car requiring attention. It once was thought that a pit was all that was needed, but the uncomfortable position of the workman in a shallow pit is an invitation to get through the job as quickly as possible and really an inducement to slight it. Hence a car should be lifted to where the underparts are readily accessible. A third requirement is that the grease be forced into place.

In the Schmidt and Zeh Service Station at 202 W. Wisconsin-ave, lubrication is given much attention. The shop has a hydraulic lift that puts the car up where the parts are readily accessible, high pressure guns are used and the greases are diversified and carefully selected, each car being greased according to specifications set forth in the Alameda check chart. Cars are washed here and the complete lines of Seiberling tires and tubes, including the famous Duo and Triple Tread tires and Uni-pressure puncture sealing tubes, are sold and serviced.

Along with the above services offered, the firm sells the National battery, most popular of replacement equipment, Cities Service Kool-motor oils, gasoline and greases, Pennzoil motor oil, cleaning naphtha, kerosene and a complete line of automobile accessories, including heaters, light bulbs, auto polishers, tire chains, antifreeze solutions, etc. The station is owned and operated by Chas. B. Schmidt and Lafayette Zeh.

Yet, largely from thoughtlessness, there are a number of unmarked graves in this community. They are desolate indeed—mute evidences that the dead are forgotten.

Charles J. Madison, proprietor of the Twin City Monument Works, 301 Main-st., Neenah, has been making markers for graves in this county for eight years. In that time he has seen many such evidences of neglect that seemed unavoidable, but in the course of time were taken care of. Mr. Madison has pushed the slogan "Mark Every Grave" to the forefront as much from his realization of what neglect means as from the fact that this is his business.

In the years he has served Mr. Madison has constructed many of the most striking memorials in the cemetery of this country. Unlike most men, he can point to practically all the work he has done, and he is justified in considerable pride when he does so, for from simple marker to the most elaborate statue or the most massive memorial his work has been marked by fine taste and excellent execution.

A cheap washing machine will cost say $85. Records kept on these machines have shown the following cost per week to operate them: First there are three intangible items, real costs that have to be met. There is the interest on the cost of the washing machine, to be spread over the time you have the machine, and which will run just about 10 cents a week. Then there is the depreciation of the machine's value. Machines will wear out, one knows, and the average depreciation is about 30 cents per week. Third is the matter of repairs on the machine—maybe nothing the first few months, but sure to show up later. A conservative figure makes it eight cents a week. So, before the machine operates, there is a fixed cost of 48 cents a week. Now add to this the following—soap, 12 cents; washing powder, 7 cents; bluing, 2 cents; water, 5 cents; gas or oil, 15 cents; electric power, 15 cents—and you have a total of $1.05, which is just about what the wet wash would cost.

Where have you gained anything by your hard work?

Are housewives in Appleton paying for the family washing and having to do it too?

Some figures recently compiled as the result of an intensive investigation of this question would indicate that many a woman does a hard day's work washing the family clothes under the impression that she is saving money, when as a matter of fact it is costing her more money to do this work than it would to send it to the Peerless-American laundry.

The best washing machine made does only the so-called "wet wash." Therefore any comparison of the relative cost of laundry work can only be made on that basis.

Safe Milk Best Food In All Considerations

When one comes to analyze the value of foods, he—often she—is in hot water. Nature has provided so many things of value that it is no mean task to prescribe a dietary regime that will satisfy as well as meet the requirements. There is only one food that is about perfect, and that is good milk. It alone seems to have all of the elements needed to sustain life and to furnish the materials from which growth can be made as well as the vitamins which are responsible for the degree of this growth.

Milk and its products should occupy an even larger place on the family table than they do. No mother who is acquainted with the results of scientific inquiry would think of depriving her children of butter. It has been pretty conclusively proved that nothing can take its place, and that the parents of growing children who do not provide butter are in grave danger of losing the children, or if they are able to get through this handicap of finding them puny in strength and lacking in vigor.

Another most excellent food is cottage cheese. It has the elements from which bones are built and the proteins that go into flesh forming. In addition, it is easily digested and will usually be tolerated by weak stomachs, while most people like it greatly.

Butter, cottage cheese and milk make a trio of foods that are most effective and at the same time most economical.

When they are furnished in a healthful condition, they are not excelled by any other. The Gear Dairy at Menasha prides itself on the exceedingly healthful quality of its products, which are handled according to the most improved methods of scientific care.

All of these products are pasteurized in the most modern and well equipped plant in this part of the state, and every requirement is met to make them perfectly wholesome when delivered to the patron. Gear products are safe products, and wise housewives will have no other kind.

Insurance Always Depends on Agent

Many Conditions He Knows About on Policies are Important

Insurance in its various branches is so essential to modern business and to the home that there are few people who do not have dealings with the insurance companies or their representatives nowadays.

These dealings may go all the way from a simple theft and fire insurance on the family Ford to an elaborate provision for a future annuity. In any case there is really rather a bewildering choice of forms offered, and most men are not qualified either by experience or knowledge to decide which is the best for them. Most people do not even try to. They tell the insurance agent what they want, and he picks out what appears to him most suitable.

Now, this course is all right provided the agent is thoroughly equipped to give the right kind of service; if he is familiar with the various forms of life insurance; if he knows what fire insurance policies apply to the best advantage and if he is familiar with the kinds of liability insurance that may be had for the automobile or other risks and then, if the companies he represents are strong, financially able to pay their losses and with the right disposition to pay them. But if the agent should miss on any one of these points, the insured might be clear out of luck.

That is the reason, and it is reason enough, surely, why the insurance you buy, whether it be life or fire, liability or theft, or any of a hundred forms, should be obtained from an agency that knows the business. Personal attention to the needs of the client, integrity and good judgment—these are essential also. No agency in the city of Appleton combines these qualifications in greater measure than James H. Balliet, at 110-112 W. College-ave. When about to insure, consult Balliet has come Printing Co. can do quick work—in fact, they prides itself on meeting the needs of its customers on short notice—on a job of this kind is of value.

You may call the company up over phone 1054 and a representative will call with the full line, giving you an opportunity to make the choice in your home or place of business.

Prize of Christmas greeting cards have dropped somewhat this year, and the Van Rooy establishment will be found in line not only on cards, but on monogrammed personal stationery and other printed matter.
